U. S. TROOPS TURN ON NAZIS AT CATANIA

JAP SEAPLANE TENDER SUNK BY U. S. BOMBS

One of Four Escorting Destroyers in Enemy Reinforcement Attempt.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, July 24—American bombers sank a 2,000-ton Japanese seaplane tender off Bougainville island and damaged one of four escorting destroyers Thursday in disrupting another Japanese attempt to reinforce their hard-pressed central Solomons positions.

The action was announced today in Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique which also told of new air battles that cost the Japanese 23 planes destroyed or damaged against loss of six American planes.

A large force of bombers was sent after the seaplane tender and destroyers. They were provided strong fighter cover, for their goal was deep in enemy territory.

Bombers Attack Ships

While the fighters took care of intercepting Zeros, shooting down five, our bombers pressed their attack in the face of intense anti-aircraft fire from the warships. We lost three fighters.

The tender was one of the Kinshin class which carries about 14 planes and repair facilities.

Apparently badly hurt by the allies' incessant bombing and strafing attacks in the Salamaua-Lae area, the Japanese in recent days have sent stronger air fleets to protect their holdings.

Yesterday a total of 60 Japanese fighters attempted to intercept heavy bombers attacking Bogadjim, 20 miles south of Madang, New Guinea. U. S. bombers were escorted by P-38's, however, and the enemy force "was decisively defeated and dispersed," the communique said. Thirteen Japanese planes were shot down, five more probably were destroyed and five others destroyed or damaged. Two of our fighters were lost.

12 Barges Destroyed

Liberator bombers, in sweeps along the Japanese supply lines off New Guinea and New Britain, destroyed 12 enemy barges and destroyed or damaged 13 others.

Japanese barges attempting to run supplies to Kolombangara island, across Kula gulf from New Georgia, encountered allied light surface units—probably PT boats. Two of the four barges in the formation were set afire.

There were no reports on American ground positions at Munda, New Georgia, but the communique said dive-bombers attacked the area "in support of ground troops."

S. O. S. Sounded By Canteen Women for Current Magazines

An S.O.S. for current magazines to distribute to men and women in the armed forces going through Marion is being issued by the women at the canteen for service men at the union depot. When the baskets are sent on the trains with the popcorn, cigarets and other refreshments, these days, there are no magazines, due to a falling off in contributions, the canteen workers state.

The women are asking the help of citizens in providing current reading material—current meaning magazines bearing dates of the last three months. Detective and mystery magazines, and popular fiction are popular with both men and women in the forces and women enjoy women's magazines—but no needlecraft the workers state.

Boy Scouts have agreed to assist in collecting magazines for the canteen. It is announced. While no regular canvass will be made and persons are asked not to call the Boy Scout office as the camping period is on, the scouts will call for magazines if called by the donor. If convenient donors are asked to take the magazines to the canteen center at the union station.

1,200 Still on Strike at Akron Rubber Plant

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., July 24—General Tire and Rubber Co. officials said today they would negotiate the strike which halted all military and civilian tire production for the fourth day if the 1,200 striking CIO workers would go back to work.

"We have told them their action is unwise and ill-advised," declared Norman B. Harper, president of the General local of the CIO United Rubber Workers. "The matter is in the hands of the war labor board and we are waiting for instructions from the government before making another move."

City School Levy Proposal Is Explained to Teachers, P.-T.A.

Supt. E. E. Holt Outlines Reasons of School Board for Seeking Two-Mill Levy in August Primary.

Facts about the proposed two-mill levy for Marion city schools, to be submitted to the voters in the August primary election, were presented to faculty members and Parent-Teacher association representatives last night by E. E. Holt, superintendent of the city schools.

In a meeting at Harding High school, he gave a factual summary of the situation that led the school board to decide to ask for the levy, explained what could be accomplished with it, and described the alternatives awaiting the city school system if it is not passed.

Basis of Need

Explaining he intended to present not an emotional appeal but a plain problem of economics, he declared that $30,200 more in city school income is to be needed in 1944 to maintain the city school program at its 1943 level. To raise this additional revenue and to provide funds for a proposed $15-a-month increase in salaries for school employes to help meet increased living costs, a two-mill levy is needed, he said. This proposed increase in salaries would become effective Jan. 1, 1944 if the levy is given a majority favorable vote.

"If the levy is not approved," Mr. Holt said, "the board of education faces the following choices:

"(A) Reduce the cost of schools in 1944 by $30,200. Since 75 per cent of expenditures are for wages, this would mean (1) failure to allow normal increases on the salary schedule and (2) reduction of wages for the school year 1944-45.

"(B) Pay the present wages for the next school year, and close school during the last three school weeks of 1944. The payroll is approximately $10,000 per week during the time school is in session."

He added that either of these steps would cause the loss of a great many valuable employes, commenting that under present conditions industry already calls many teachers by means of higher wages.

Cites Reasons for Need

He explained the need for $30,200 additional revenue in 1944 to maintain a program equivalent to the one now under way for 1943 as follows: The city schools started 1943 with a cash balance of $26,000, an advantage the schools are not likely to have at the end of this year. In addition, the year's tax collections exceeded certified estimates and school foundation payments came through on a basis that provided unexpected revenue. These helps, which can not be anticipated for 1944, would be offset by funds from the proposed levy, he said.

In support of the proposed $15-a-month increase in salaries for all school employes, Mr. Holt said that the average wage for the year (52 weeks) of board of education employes according to the May, 1943, payroll was as follows: teachers, $30.28; janitors, $30.43; principals and supervisors, $40.73.

In further support of the levy as a whole, he declared that according to an independent study of the Marion school finances made in recent weeks, the per-pupil cost of operating the schools in Marion in the 1941-42 term was 22.9 per cent below the average cost in the eight cities in Ohio nearest to Marion in school size. These eight cities are Zanesville, Mansfield, Middletown, East Cleveland, East Liverpool, Steubenville, Newark and Massillon.

How Much It Would Cost

Explaining the effect the levy would have on tax bills of Marion residents, he said it would cost $2 for each $1,000 valuation, or 50 cents a month additional for the owner of a property carrying a tax valuation of $3,000.

The levy is proposed as a two-year measure, and would raise an estimated $77,850 a year on the basis of 100 per cent tax collections.

If it is passed, it will be because the electors are sufficiently interested in the welfare of their children to vote for it, Mr. Holt declared.

Analyzing the experience last November when a similar proposal was defeated, he said 3,729 favorable votes were cast for the levy at that time—a number that probably would be more than sufficient to assure its passage in the primary because of the anticipated light primary vote. Pointing out that the schools definitely could count on as many "friends" as there were favorable votes last year, he declared the task awaiting the sponsors of the levy is to see that these friends go to the polls next month to cast their favorable votes. He said there might be some organized opposition to the levy, and consequently sponsors of the proposal would need to expend some effort in its support.

Urges Public Support

"The welfare of the boys and girls and the good name of the entire community rests on the quality of the schools," Mr. Holt asserted. He said he felt every citizen should feel his share of the responsibility to provide the

SCOUT CAMP TO OPEN SUNDAY

100 Boys from Marion Area To Take Part in Opening; To Run Through Aug. 14.

Some 100 Harding area Boy Scouts, a capacity attendance, will participate in vesper and camp fire services Sunday night which will mark the opening of the Scout camping season at Camp John A. Owens, south of Marion.

According to Hugh Hay, area Scout executive, these 100 Scouts will remain at Camp Owens until July 31, the official close of the first of the three camping sessions. The second session will last from Aug. 1 to Aug. 7 and the final from Aug. 8 to Aug. 14. Hay, basing his estimates on the registration at local area Scout headquarters, anticipates about 100 to attend each of the other two sessions, also.

Tomorrow night's opening activities will consist of vesper services under the direction of a local minister and the traditional camp fire rites. Hay will supervise the latter event tomorrow night and will be in charge of all ceremonies, camp fires, and evening games throughout the 1943 camping season.

Variety of Activities

Practically all the activities, contests, and educational instruction in the nature life which have been participated in by Scouts at Camp Owens for several years will comprise the major part of this year's program. The addition of rifle practice will provide a new feature. Rifle tutoring was probably introduced into the camp program this year because of the uncertainty and now nearness of the war to boys of Scouting age. R. M. Miller, area Scout commissioner, will serve as director of the rifle range and Scout Dan LaMarche as assistant director.

Mr. Hay emphasizes the "strong" waterfront program at Camp Owens this year despite the fact that

GERMANS LOSE 4,500 DEAD IN DAY AT OREL

Russians Smash Counterattacks at City Hitler Orders Nazis To Hold.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, July 24—More than 4,500 German soldiers died yesterday at the approaches to Orel where Russian forces closing a pincers about that bastion continued to throw back Nazi counterattacks and forced ahead two to four miles, front line dispatches said today.

As the fierce battle of attrition raged into its 12th day with reports of mounting German losses, Red Star, the army organ, said the battle not only had crushed Hitler's plan for a new general offensive on the eastern front but was causing him to lose the battle for Sicily.

"The Red army offensive is breaking down the entire German defense in Europe," Red Star said. "It makes the German rear vulnerable."

The newspaper said Hitler had been unable to release forces to combat the allied invasion of Sicily because he was so heavily engaged on the Russian front.

Hitler Orders Stand

Dispatches describing the fury of the German counterattacks at Orel, where the Russians have quoted German prisoners as saying Hitler has ordered his forces to hold to the last man, told of a Russian smash across a river directly east of the city.

Eleven German counterattacks were launched against the position, the dispatches said, and the Russians announced officially that more than 2,000 Germans were annihilated in the attempt to dislodge the Red army forces.

The Germans also stepped up their aerial defense of the city by sending 250 planes over the Russian positions, but the dispatches said Soviet fighter planes beat them off before they reached their objective. The Germans lost 52 planes over Orel in a single day, the Russians said.

The Russian communique reported advances all along the front, from Izyum on the Donets river north to the Orel sector, but the biggest gains were recorded at Orel and Belgorod.

On the Belgorod flank, in the area where the Russians made gains when they first launched their first offensive July 5, the Russians reported they had captured several towns, killed 1,000 Germans and disabled 18 tanks.

What were described in the communique as "engagements of local importance" continued in the region south of Izyum and southwest of Voroshilovgrad in the Donets basin. In four days of fighting in the Voroshilovgrad area the Russians said they killed several thousand Germans and destroyed large quantities of Nazi war material.

WEST CENTER STREET BUSINESS ROOM SOLD

Bain Building Purchased from Bank by A. A. Van Atta.

A. A. Van Atta, operator of a wholesale electrical supply and paint store on North Prospect street for several years, announced today the purchase of the Bain building at 375-377 West Center street from the Marion County bank.

At present workmen are readying the building for moving the store into the new location. The new store will be open for business, but Mr. Van Atta said business would continued as usual at the North Prospect sales rooms until all merchandise has been removed.

The building in which the supply house will be located was built in 1908. Among its first occupants was the Lister Furniture Co.

The building, a two and one-half story brick structure, is a block and one half west of Hotel Harding and immediately east of the H. C. Scherff Furniture Co.

The change was made, Mr. Van Atta explained, because of the need for larger quarters as a result of increased activities in supplying Marion area war industries. The new building affords approximately 12,500 square feet of floor space, Mr. Van Atta said.

Controlled Price and Wage Increases Proposed by Taft

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 24—A senatorial suggestion that the present economic stabilization program be scrapped in favor of controlled wage and price increases today climaxed a series of rapid-fire developments on the nation's anti-inflation front.

The controlled-increase system was proposed by Senator Taft (R-Ohio), and semi-seconded by Senators Hatch (D-N.M.) and Russell (D-Ga.) who agreed with his contention that Price Administrator Prentiss Brown faces an "impossible task" in holding the line against inflation under present conditions.

Coming in the wake of a war labor board warning to labor gainst seeking "inflationary wage increases," and a presidential disclosure that the administration plans to reorganize the entire stabilization program, Taft's proposal assumed added import.

He told an interviewer he believed labor leaders were "asking something impossible" in demanding that prices be cut back to the levels of Sept. 15, 1942, and suggested, instead, that an agreement be reached under which wages and living costs would be allowed to rise not more than 6 per cent a year, or ½ per cent a month.

"I have never thought that we could maintain rigid controls without any adjustment," the Ohio senator said. "It seems to me that the sensible thing to do is to recognize that in wartime there is bound to be some inflation and to seek to keep prices and wages from getting out of relationship with each other, rather than to attempt to roll them back to a certain level."

President Roosevelt disclosed the administration efforts at his press-radio conference, said no agreement had been reached, and that when it was, congress would have to pass upon it because it would cost money. His statement came a day after leaders of organized labor had asked for a retail price rollback to Sept. 15, 1942, levels or abandonment of the "little steel" rule by which the WLB generally holds wage increases to within 15 per cent of the January 1, 1941, levels.

But the labor board stated flat-

Track Star Killed in Crash Widely Known in County

Marine Corps Capt. Charles Paddock, world famous track star who was one of six killed in the crash of a naval plane near Sitka, Alaska, Thursday, was widely known in Marion county, especially in LaRue and the nearby area.

Through a mutual interest in dogs and swimming, Capt. Paddock, once called the "world's fastest human," became closely acquainted with Walter H. Lingo of LaRue, when his Oorang Kennels at LaRue were regarded among the world's largest kennels.

Mr. Lingo recalled that he first met Paddock while swimming in Florida during World war I. Paddock, then a lieutenant with the field artillery, was taking training in Florida.

Business Connection

The friendship was renewed several years after the war and after Paddock had completely revised track records as a star at the University of Southern California. Out of the new friendship blossomed a business connection which lasted for seven years. Paddock, a rising young journalist, found a market for his writings with Mr. Lingo, president of a firm which published monthly "Athlete & Sportsman," a sportsmen's magazine which enjoyed a circulation of 75,000 copies a month before publication was suspended early in the depression.

Paddok, versed in the writing of sports stories especially, conducted a monthly track column, one of the features of the magazine. Another of the publication's contributors who was also a world's sports figure was Jim Thorpe.

Frequent Visitor

For seven or eight years in the middle 1920s and the early 30s Paddock frequented the Marion area between appearances in New York stage and Hollywood movie productions.

Mr. Lingo was unable to recall the exact date of Paddock's last visit here but he said it was in the late '30s. One of his favorite pastimes while visiting here, Mr. Lingo said, was to swim in Crystal lake.

Mr. Lingo is director of the civilian defense council for the LaRue area, and operates an organization known as the Sportsmen's Service, an association of 20 large kennels.

Total value of the articles was estimated at over $100 by the owner.

DRAFT LOOKS FOR MANPOWER

Seek Men in Sufficient Numbers To Avoid Calling Fathers.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 24—Selective service is looking in every direction for enough manpower so that it can continue to delay general drafting of men it defines as fathers—or, if possible, avert it entirely.

But no official will say that permanent general deferment for such fathers (of children born before last Sept. 15, provided the fathers are not in non-deferrable jobs) is very likely.

Right now the drive for draftees is concentrated on getting all the men possible out of the nearly 3,000,000 currently classified as 4-F (rejectees.)

Newest angle of the drive is pointed at those rejected for syphilis. Local boards have been told to check on these men closely — working with public health agencies—and call them up without delay if they refuse to take treatment which would make them fit for service. Then, of course, they would be sent to camps for treatment.

Another major part of the drive is aimed at psychiatrist rejections. Induction station psychiatrists have been rejecting 23 per cent of recent examinees—virtually all of them physically fit—on the basis of belief that they are unable to stand the mental strain of shifting from civilian to military life.

Pretty well under way is an effort to shake out of war plants and other civilian work more than a million single and childless married men who currently are deferred for occupational reasons—as essential or key workers in essential industries.

Response to Kiwanis Watch Drive Lags; Plea Is Renewed

Officials of the Kiwanis club watch drive stated today that the response to the appeal for old watches has been very slow. The watches are needed badly by the Russian Army, due to the fact that the remaining factories in that nation that made watches before the war are engaged in manufacturing precision instruments. Two of the factories were bombed into ruins.

Recognizing the urgent need for timepieces the jewelers of the United States issued an appeal for all makes and types of watches. The contributions will be repaired and put into running order before being sent to Russia.

The local drive is being sponsored by the Kiwanis club and the watches may be left at the office of J. D. Torrance at 126½ West Center street. Watches for both women and men, pocket and wrist watches in almost any condition will be repaired if possible, by the jewelers who have volunteered to do the work, and sent to Russia. The contributor is requested to tag the offering with his or her name and address so that the timepiece may be returned if it cannot be repaired.

YANKS TURNING EAST TO AID EIGHTH ARMY

Smash Through Axis Lines To Capture Two Towns in Drive from Enna.

By The Associated Press

Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's American 7th army troops, victors in a swift knockout of western Sicily, were reported moving today toward a showdown battle with elite German divisions which had failed to crack under an eight-day assault by the British 8th army at Catania on the east coast.

Progress in the new American thrust was indicated by a German broadcast which said U. S. forces driving northeast from Enna, in central Sicily, attacked "with numerically superior forces" and broke through axis defense lines to capture two towns.

The broadcast said German troops counterattacked and that a fierce battle was developing.

Capture of one of the last two major cities in the west, Marsala, announced by allied headquarters today as a rapid-fire sequel to the fall of Palermo, Sicily's capital. The big Trapani naval base, which lies between Marsala and Palermo, was believed cut off and doomed to early surrender.

80,000 Prisoners Taken

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's command said the allies so far had taken 80,000 prisoners and that the Americans were expected to round up 50,000 more.

"A rapidly diminishing portion of the island is all that remains to the axis," a communique said. Harold V. Boyle, Associated Press correspondent at the front, said Palermo, the largest city in Sicily, fell without a shot being fired in its own defense. Italian officers, bags all packed, had been waiting all day to hand over the city, Boyle said. The Germans had fled.

An Algiers broadcast said more than 40,000 axis prisoners had been captured by the Americans at Palermo. The entire Italian 5th division was said to have surrendered.

On the east flank, allied warships sent tons of shells screaming into enemy positions at Catania, and United Nations bombers plastered cities on the Italian mainland, including Salerno and Bologna.

Roundabout reports from Bern, Switzerland, said the battered axis forces had begun evacuating Sicily, but authoritative confirmation was lacking.

RAF Raids Crete

Simultaneously, it was officially disclosed that a powerful armada of RAF and Greek planes smashed at Nazi-occupied Crete in widespread raids yesterday, striking with such fury as to suggest that an invasion of that strategic stepping-stone island off the southern tip of Greece might be on the calendar.

Istanbul dispatches last night reported a growing conviction that the allies were about to launch a new offensive in the eastern Mediterranean to link up with the Soviet drive in Russia—presumably springing from middle east bases where strong American and British forces have been gathering for months.

In a typical "softening up" attack, allied raiders violently pounded the enemy defenses on Crete, shooting up tented camps, gun positions and wireless and power stations and exploding ammunition dumps.

Berlin said German airfields on Crete were a particular target and asserted the raid was "obviously made for the main purpose of probing axis defenses in Crete."

Allied Middle East headquarters described the attack as "a large-scale offensive operation." Seventeen allied planes were lost.

Strike Out from Enna

Dispatches said American and Canadian troops were striking out from Enna, in central Sicily, toward the Catania zone where they could either hammer the German right flank or drive on to Messina and cut off the only axis escape route left open.

Messina, 50 miles north of Catania, lies across a two-mile strait from the Italian mainland.

At least three German divisions—upwards of 45,000 troops—were strongly entrenched before Catania with defenses stretching back to depth of several miles, and field

This Mere Man

A SERMONETTE

By REV. J. RAPHAEL DALLAS

Pastor of Oakland Evangelical Church

Scripture text is found in the Gospel by Matthews, chap. 9, verse 2

"AND they brought unto Him a man." Of course there is more in the verse, but this is the important part. We have heard a great deal about "Man's inhumanity to man" but we have here one of the greatest examples of—man's humanity to man—and that is different. When one is wise to stop long enough to carefully think of life as we think, there comes this question, "What is of more value than a man?"

Jesus said, "Ye are of more value than many sheep." And "What shall it profit a man though he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" So when these brought to Jesus "a man" they did one of the most wonderful things any man or group of men can do. After all if it were not for man there would be no other values. And only life is lasting.

THEY brought a man. We like to think of men who have blessed the world. One of the most eminent psychologists has said "Great mind of man" It thinks the thoughts of God after him." The mind of man sweeps both earth and sky to get its views of life. The mind of man, if not depraved, would walk out into the night and claim affinity with the very heavens. And even depraved man, in his more sober moments of reflection, often feels the upward tug of God upon his soul. We have been made in the image of God, and can never feel at rest until we find a rest in Him.

Man conquers the elements of nature and makes them serve his needs. The discoveries of man have so shrunken this globe that now we travel farther in an hour than we once could travel in weeks. Think of what the mind and hands of man have done! How often do we hear this exclamation, "If only the men of yesterday could come back and see these things." Mother's hands, Father's hands, how they have met human needs! Now mothers' hearts and fathers' hearts are reaching 'round the earth to keep their love aflame for those who are serving home and native land, and we in America think, are serving God—The reason all the world is willing to bow at the feet of Jesus Christ is that as a 'Son of God,' and 'Son of man' He did so much for man that no other one could do, or was ever willing to do. Yes, they brought a man.

MAN is a life. Man is immortal. He lives on. As such every man faces Christ. The life of man needs to be pure, and noble, and strong, and unselfish. Every life should point all other lives heavenward. Christ saw all the potential powers and qualities in man and seeing him thus, He willingly gave his life for the lives of men.

But not all men are so. There are those whose minds have been deadened. Their souls are calloused. Their hearts hardened. Their vision blurred. Their interest in others gone. These lives are so warped that the image of God is gone, or going. They never think of bringing themselves, let alone any other, to Christ that they may be complete and happy, and successful. But these are the ones the church is seeking. These we would like to bring to Jesus. That is the main reason for this sermonette. If any such a man reads this we beg him come. Life will take on a new meaning and a new glow. Every man needs Jesus Christ, for a full life.

THEY brought him TO Christ. Every man should bring someone TO Christ. I am emphasizing the word TO because in these days there is so much of bringing men TOWARD Jesus, but never getting them all the way. There is a vast difference between bringing men part way and all the way. This is the whole mission of the whole church. We teach but if we do not get men, or boys, women and girls TO Christ we fail miserably in the full duty. The only mission the church has, when we think of basic things, is to do just this very thing. First we must know HIM as personal savior and then love others enough to give ourselves to this first work. When the church fails to do this then the owls well may hoot in the belfry and the burdocks grow across it's walks. "And they brought unto Jesus A MAN."

Our task is clear and the goal is worthy. Doing it will solve all other problems.

Extra Gasoline Allowed for 16 Specific Purposes

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 24 — The regional office of price administration announced yesterday 16 specific uses for which gasoline rations may be issued henceforth.

Herbert S. Fowkes, regional OPA mileage rationing officer, said the list was submitted to a recent conference of district mileage representatives from Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia with the purpose of guiding local boards in handling special ration requests.

The uses for which such rations may be granted are: to obtain medical treatment; to get necessary food or supplies; for bona fide change of residence, or permanent moves; return of a vehicle or boat to a residence; for jury service; transportation of a scientific expedition; election purposes;

Delivery of telephone directories; towing house trailers in connection with bona fide change of residence; for delivery of automobiles, motorcycles or motor boats; moving a vehicle to a storage place; demonstrating automobiles for sale or resale; to move vehicles from one sales establishment to another (limited to five gallons of gasoline per month for each vehicle); testing of motor vehicles or equipment by manufacturers; furlough travel; and returning a stolen vehicle or boat.

Fowkes made it clear special rations never had been and would not be allowed for funerals or traveling to summer camps and summer homes. Civilian defense and government workers may be granted supplemental rations to meet actual needs for these duties, and persons regularly transporting a child or children to school in a private car also may seek supplemental rations, the OPA said.

The special ration provision for victory gardeners ended July 12, Fowkes said, but persons still holding such rations can get gasoline under them until the ration is used up.

LEWIS AND WLB IN PEACE MOVE

Mine Leader Agrees To Appear Before Board To Support Contract.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 24—The dove of peace fluttered over a strange new course today—between the offices of John L. Lewis and the war labor board.

To get a contract he likes for his half million coal miners, the United Mine Workers chieftain at last was ready to talk turkey with the board he long had scorned.

And the board was ready, too.

In one of the most sensational form reversals of his stormy career, Lewis officially recognized the board late yesterday and offered to come before it in defense of a contract signed three days ago between the UMW's district 12 and the Illinois Coal Operators association.

The board promptly accepted and notified him to attend a public hearing starting Aug. 3. During the mine labor dispute which led to government operation of the pits, several previous board requests for Lewis' appearance went unheeded.

The only official explanation of Lewis' action came from a UMW official who said that in the past the board had no statutory standing, but that it received legal status through enactment of the Smith-Connally labor disputes act.

The move was seen by most labor observers as a sign of Lewis' determination to fight for board approval of the Illinois-UMW contract, which the UMW policy committee has approved as a model for the entire coal industry.

The two-year contract provides for payment of portal-to-portal pay at the rate of $1.25 daily, and extends the basic work-week from 35 hours to 48 weekly, with time and one-half pay after 35 hours.

Board approval of the Illinois agreement—affecting about 35,000 miners in UMW district 12—union spokesmen said, would pave the way for signing of similar contracts throughout the coal fields.

The board last month refused to approve portal-to-portal pay until given facts and figures prove that the pay was legally due and not a hidden wage increase.

AWOL SOLDIERS FACE COW THEFT CHARGE

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 24—Lee V. Boardman, agent in charge of the FBI office here, said two army paratroopers were held in Cuyahoga county jail today following an attempt to "steal cows for the black market."

Boardman identified the pair as Army Privates Clifford M. Tryon, 18, and Melvin Dodge, 20, both of Painesville, O. He added they had been absent without leave since June.

They are held on a federal charge of transporting a stolen half-ton truck from Michigan to Ohio. Deputy Sheriff William J. Appleton of Lake county arrested the pair and turned them over to the FBI after the truck bogged down in a lane near Painesville.

"They did take one cow, though, from a farm near Ashtabula, and Tryon said he was surprised to learn later that it belonged to his own father," Boardman said. Appleton said the animal was sold by the paratroopers at the Cleveland union stockyards.

Boardman reported the pair had repainted the truck, had sewed sergeant's stripes on their sleeves and carried forged military passes.

"That truck belonged to an uncle," Tryon said. "We wanted to raise some money. I hadn't been paid since January."

Union Co. Mission Worker Returns From China Post

MARYSVILLE, July 24—It took more than nine months for Miss Grace Crider to return to her native home at Marysville from China but the trip was worth the effort, she said upon her arrival here last week.

Miss Crider was a missionary for the Assembly of God Mission and spent the last six years in China. She was last stationed at Shasi, in the interior of China. Missionaries were instructed to leave the country soon after Pearl Harbor but where she was located the war seemed far removed.

When nearly all of the supplies were cut off and enemy planes became common, Miss Crider with fellow missionaries decided it was time to return home. Going to Kunming, the ruins there brought the war closer to their existence.

She flew from Kunming to Calcutta, India, on last October 21. Coming home by way of Australia she experienced two Good Fridays but no Easter due to crossing the international date-line four times. The final lap of the journey was made on a packed troop transport. Aboard the ship in addition to missionaries were marines, wounded soldiers from Guadalcanal and 700 Polish refugees.

Miss Crider is visiting her brother, Elmer Crider of Marysville Route 1. She is a graduate of Marysville High school and hopes to return to missionary work at the war's end.

REGIONAL HOUSING FIGURES ANNOUNCED

CLEVELAND — More than 3,913 war workers have been housed in existing facilities in 24 localities serviced by the National Housing Agency's war housing centers in Region V (covering the states of Ohio, Michigan, West Virginia and Kentucky) during June, William K. Divers, regional NHA representative, announced today.

Divers said there was a total of 6,140 applications for family dwelling units received by the 24 housing centers during the month. Based on reports from the 24 centers, 37 per cent of the applications were for accommodations with less than two bedrooms; 43 per cent of the applicants desired two-bedroom accommodations and 20 per cent wanted dwellings with three or more bedrooms.

Of the 3,913 war workers who were housed during June, Mr. Divers said 1,558 had families, and 2,355 single workers secured accommodations in rooms through the services of these centers. A decided increase in the number of requests for two and three bedroom units was noted during the month of June as compared with May.

U. S. Fighter Pilot, Out on His Own, Bags German ME

By The Associated Press

AN ADVANCE AIR BASE IN NORTH AFRICA, July 24 — An American fighter pilot flew over Italy without permission yesterday and shot down a German Messerschmitt that intercepted a formation of Flying Fortresses he met on the way.

His air buddies said they thought the flier, Second Lieut. John T. Hanton of South Minneapolis, ought to get a decoration for his volunteer feat. And air force higher-ups indicated they weren't taking too seriously the fact that Hanton did the job without an official assignment.

He was supposed to go with his squadron of Lightnings to escort a group of American Marauders on a different mission, but engine trouble delayed his takeoff and in the hazy sky he couldn't find the other fighters.

He knew the approximate course, however, and struck out over a layer of clouds toward Italy. Halfway there and still alone, he was about to turn back when he encountered a big formation of B-17s flying on a bombing mission to Foggia without a fighter escore.

Waggling his wings to identify himself, he took over a protective position and tagged along. Over the island of Capri Hanton noticed heavy anti-aircraft fire bursting underneath the formation, and then he spotted a ME-109 diving out of the blue.

Hanton dropped his auxiliary "belly tank"" and started fighting. His guns cut across the Messerschmitt's left wing. The German fell off with a lurch and dived straight down.

After the bombing of Foggia was completed, Hanton hovered over the Fortresses all the way back to Africa. As they approached their home bases he skipped over to his own field to explain where he had been most of the day.

Make It LAST!

Paint It!

By VIVIAN BROWN
Associated Press Writer

You've no idea what a bucket of paint can do.

An old wicker chair that has been pushed around in the garage or that metal table that has been rained on for months, can be made to look like new and put back into service.

It's all done with paint and brushes. Though some of the paints, enamels and varnishes have gone to war, a few quick-drying protective coatings may still be had and the dry powder type water paints are being produced without restriction.

Your favorite old paint brush, which is probably made of Chinese hog bristles, needs plenty of pampering for the duration. Be sure to clean it with a little turpentine or a standard brush cleaner immediately after using. Suspend the brush in a jar containing a mixture of equal parts of linseed oil and turpentine, which will keep the bristles soft.

Before painting porch furniture make sure to remove all heavy soot with a scrub brush and cleaning naphtha. Sandpaper well before painting.

Your tool handles can be kept from cracking or splintering by sandpapering carefully and applying an enamel.

Turn chairs upside down to paint. Be sure to do under part and legs first.

Leftover paint can be saved by pouring a layer of turpentine or solvent over the surface and sealing tightly.

OHIOAN DIES WITH UPSHUR

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 24—Donald Glen Whetstone of Minerva, O., an aviation machinists s mate third class, was reported by the navy as killed Wednesday in the airplane crash near Sitka, Alaska, in which Major General William P. Upshur of the Marine Corps died. Whetstone's father is Guy Milton Whetstone of Minerva.

Scientific Use of Paint Is Found To Be Valuable Factory Safety Aid

Women war workers are responding appreciatively to increasing use of new scientifically developed color technique for painting factory interiors. Bright paint on walls, floors and machinery has encouraged good industrial housekeeping, which is having a beneficial effect on plant safety records.

"Woman's innate talent for maintaining cleanliness and order is stimulated by cheerful surroundings, resulting in less personal injury hazard," says R. A. Massey, Du Pont color expert, pointing out that last year enough man-hours were lost on industrial production lines because of accidents to build more than 9,000 heavy bombers.

Under the new color system, already adopted by major war plants, floors are often painted white and stripped with brown. The light finish discourages careless dropping of tools and greasy rags, making dark objects so conspicuous as to reduce the slipping and stumbling hazard.

For machinery, the most favored color scheme has proved to be light gray and light buff, as worked out in a three-year Du Pont research program to improve seeing conditions in industry. It has been found that operators take pride in these bright machines and voluntarily keep them clean.

Carnival colors for rows of machine tools is the latest trend, with danger points emphasized in brilliant red.

"Worker morale is noticeably boosted by this scientific use of color," Mr. Massey reports. "More illumination is utilized, because the entire interior is treated with paint to become one vast light reflector. Better visual conditions lead to fewer production errors and more rapid output.

"For the vast number of women who are taking factory jobs for the first time, the so-called 'Three-Dimensional-Seeing' technique means easier adjustment. Housewives who have spent their previous working hours in homes decorated to their own taste, business and professional women who have been accustomed to pleasant offices, more readily adapt themselves to fast-moving war production when drab factory workrooms are repainted with light colors."

Building Quiz

Q. My cellar floor is of the usual cement and is very gritty and dusty. I would like to paint it. What kind of paint is suitable for the job and what preparations will be needed?

A. Synthetic resin floor paints are suitable for concrete cellar floors. They are not affected by dampness or free lime in concrete. All makers of such paint advise washing the floor with a muriatic acid solution. (This is highly corrosive and should be handled with great care). Complete directions are furnished by the manufacturer and must be carefully followed if good results are to be obtained.

Q. If I insulate my attic will it be necessary to provide ventilation? There is no ventilation at present.

A. Ventilation in the attic will be a great help in any case. It is especially necessary if you place the insulation in the floor. If you do not make this provision you will run the risk of condensation in the attic. Louvers for this purpose can be had, and should have insect screening in addition to a well-fitting shutter, to be opened or closed when necessary.

Yellow Fever "Guinea Pig" Dies Suddenly

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 24—Lt. Col. Thomas N. England, 66, one of the men who served as volunteer "human guinea pigs" during army experiments with yellow fever after the Spanish-American war, is dead.

Colonel England, executive officer of the army Fifth service command's medical branch, succumbed unexpectedly of a heart ailment at his home here last night.

A native of Chillicothe, he enlisted as a private in 1899 during the Spanish-American war and served in the yellow fever experiments in Cuba the following year.

He spent 20 nights at Camp Lazear in a bed formerly occupied by a yellow fever victim, the test helping prove the disease was spread by mosquitoes.

Lt. B. G. Manley Takes Capital Naval Post

Special to The Star

LARUE, July 23—Lt. B. G. Manley, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Manley of LaRue, has been transferred from Santa Fe, N. M., to Washington, D. C., according to the information received by his parents.

Lt. Manley established the Navy's main recruiting station for New Mexico on May 16, 1942. Since that time the enlistments increased monthly and when the voluntary enlistments were stopped last December, the number of recruits had reached 600 for the month.

He has been assigned to the bureau of ships at Washington and will start his new duties Aug. 1. Prior to his commission Lt. Manley was manager of car distribution for the Pontiac division of General Motors Corp. He also served as an enlisted man in the Navy during the last war. Following his commission as lieutenant senior grade early in 1942 he was stationed at Norfolk, Va. before being assigned to the recruiting station.

FEDERAL HOUSING "TAXES" PAID BY U. S.

Uncle Sam Pays Cities Where Housing Projects Are Set Up.

The amount of $80,172.54 has been paid or approved for payment to municipalities with war housing projects in Ohio, as of May 31, 1943, it was announced today by Carleton F. Sharpe, regional director of the Federal Public Housing Authority with headquarters in Cleveland.

The sum is part of a total disbursement of over $1,000,000 in 38 states, where tax rates on public war housing projects have been established and amounts in lieu of taxes determined. Ten additional states will be eligible for federal payments when construction has been completed and tax rates established.

It is anticipated that payments totaling approximately $16,500,000 in place of taxes on federal public housing will have been paid throughout the nation by early 1944.

FPHA was enabled to make such monies available through congressional action in 1942.

WATER HEATER BAN HIT

Curtailment of the manufacture of water heaters by the WPB is detrimental to health and clean living, Charles M. Swinnerton of Los Angeles, chairman of the Sanitary Committee of the National Association of Master Plumbers, said in a report which he made at the recent annual convention of the Association in Chicago. "Human being, and especially children," said Mr. Swinnerton, "require a copious supply of hot water in order to keep clean and strong in body and mind. Where filth and dirt abound, there you find disease and moral degradation."

Axis Line

AS ANTICIPATED, the Italian and German propaganda organs are pulling the steps and ringing the changes on the bombing of Rome, now disclosed to have been an all-American project in high level precision bombing. According to Axis propaganda, nothing was hit but historic and cultural targets.

This is the Axis line on all action affecting Rome, which will be in the news increasingly for the next few weeks. For those who still don't realize what is contemplated and why the Allies are doing everything humanly possible to keep the record straight, this paragraph from a radio address to the Italian people by Carlo Scorza, Fascist party secretary, explains itself: "This is a war of religions, institutions and bread. What is Italy defending? Italy defends her Catholic faith, which is endangered with equal violence by Red bolshevism and by the sectarian and doctrinal confusion of the Anglo-Saxons, who are governed by Judaism."

The Axis—part-pagan Germany and all-pagan Japan plus the devout Italians—will not pass up a chance to convince the gullible that a religious war has begun, if they can persuade the gullible to listen.

Willkie's Forelock in the Ring

WENDELL Willkie's eagerness to go up against Col. Robert McCormick in the Illinois preferential primary in 1944 signifies that his hat is in the ring if the colonel puts his in first.

These things call for finesse and a sense of timing. President Roosevelt's hat, despite the popular assumption since November, 1940, that he and Mr. Willkie never stopped running, isn't in the ring yet, either.

Thus, there has been no substantial change in next year's outlook. Mr. Willkie has put his forelock in the ring, and his hat will follow if all goes well. At least some of the suspense has been broken. It had begun to look as though all those gentlemen standing around the ring were afraid to make an overt move.

Vice President Still in Office

HENRY A. WALLACE, vice president of the United States, having been duly elected to that office and certified by due process, was not fired by President Roosevelt in that dispute with Secretary of Commerce Jones. He is still in office and can not be fired by anyone until his term expires early in January, 1945, contrary to a common impression that he depends on presidential favor for his tenure. Meanwhile, there always is the possibility that Mr. Wallace might become chief executive of the United States, though he has got himself into a fix that would make that eventuality extremely unfortunate as far as wielding any influence is concerned. In short, he has frittered away his dignity by being rebuked for doing something he shouldn't have been doing in the first place.

Mr. Wallace as vice president made the mistake of leaving his dignity on the shelf in the washroom and by the time he had missed it someone had picked it up and departed for parts unknown. The board of economic warfare was his pet cause. He became so engrossed in his responsibilities as chairman that he forgot he really had no right to be holding down an executive job at all, having been elected to the vice presidency, which entails acting as presiding officer of the senate. President Roosevelt, in turn, became so engrossed in his problems that when Mr. Wallace and Mr. Jones fell to fighting he treated the vice president of the United States as a school principal might treat a naughty child. But thanks to the fact Mr. Wallace's board of economic warfare was dissolved in the process, it's possible the vice president of the United States will remain within his constitutional limits for the rest of his term.

Exercises in Foolishness

AMERICAN Institute of Public Opinion discovers a lot of valuable information in the course of conducting its business, but occasionally it muffs one. Its poll on the appraisal by the American and British people on war contributions of the United Nations will not add anything to the sum total of human knowledge, but quite likely will be an unsolicited donation to the sum total of human confusion.

In Britain, the poll shows the opinion that Russia has contributed most and Britain next most, with 50 and 42 per cent, respectively. Five per cent of the British place China third and only three per cent concede that the United States has been helpful, too. In the United States, 55 per cent think the United States is most important, with Russia getting 32 per cent, Britain only nine per cent and China four per cent. This is palpable nonsense, besides being a provocation to bad will. If the Russians could be polled, or the Chinese, they would be first. The Greeks and the Yugoslavs are certain, no doubt, that they are winning the war, with the assistance of a few other countries.

Credit for winning the war belongs to teamwork, which isn't going to be helped any by proof that the average man now, as always, is disposed to hold the other fellow in low esteem.

One in every eight deaths from heart disease in the United States is caused by syphilis.

Today and Tomorrow

Care Urged in Invoking "Military Necessity" Policy as War Progresses.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

SWISS papers report that the Germans are actively taking steps which show that they realize there is no fortress in fact as the Europe of fortress. They are preparing their real defenses not on the shore of the European peninsula but within the Continent in the area which includes the industrial region of Germany itself, the Low Countries, northern and eastern France, Bohemia, Austria, Poland and also the granary of the Danube Valley. These reports are almost certainly true in the sense that it is this region, rather than the whole of what is called Europe, which Germany must hold or be finally and utterly defeated.

For what the Germans have called "Europe" is strategically an optical illusion which has also deceived many, perhaps most, of the people opposed to them. It is an illusion of the map which causes men to suppose that the Mediterranean sea marks the southern boundary of Europe. In fact, the Mediterranean lies inside Europe, and the southern shores of the Mediterranean, that is to say the northern horns of Africa, are now and always have been a strategic, political, economic and historic part of Europe. In truth the Allies were never driven out of Europe, as Mr. Churchill with his genius saw from the first, as long as they had a foothold in Egypt.

Importance of Mediterranean

The Mediterranean is in fact a great inland European lake, and by far the most important highway between western and eastern Europe. The only overland communications between the west and the east of Europe are in the flat plains north of the mountains. With them alone it is impossible to hold the whole of Europe. The Mediterranean is the main highway to Italy, to the Balkans, to Turkey, and to Russia, and he who dominates the Mediterranean is in control of the central system of the communications of Europe.

It is an error, therefore, to think that the invasion of Europe began with the landing in Sicily. In fact, the Sicilian campaign marks an important advance, like the crossing of a wide river, which brings us nearer to the heart of the German power. It is a later phase of an operation which carries on the advance begun months ago at El Alamein, Casablanca and Algiers. When the advance has been carried into Corsica, Sardinia and northern Italy we are still outside of Germany, but we shall stand in the geographical heart of Europe.

As we proceed farther into Europe we shall be confronted again and again with the moral dilemma which has been presented to us by the bombing of the Roman railway yards. For the things we cherish in Europe, its people, its cities, its shrines and monuments and irreplaceable treasures, are in the hands of the enemy. It is impossible to strike at the enemy without injuring them, and again and again, and not only in Rome, this tragic condition has faced us. We have maintained a blockade, knowing that our friends would starve before our enemies suffered. We have bombed the cities of northern France, knowing that in order to strike at the enemy's power death and destruction would also be the lot of those whom we have come to liberate. In battering at the gates of the prison we injure those who are the captives within it. We are haunted by the dreadful realization of what the innocent must endure before we can break open the prison doors and strike off the chains which bind them.

Shortening the Agony

We are face to face, in short, with the awful reality of the evil thing we are fighting, that, like a monster, he stands there at bay, clutching to his person the peoples and their cities we must deliver from his clutches. What can we do to shorten and mitigate this agony except to resolve to strike at him all the more swiftly and relentlessly, hoping to shake him loose and bring him down before the death and destruction are universal?

Yet for our own moral health and peace of soul let us be careful that we do not infect ourselves with the evil with which we are at war. Let us be very careful indeed not to invoke the doctrine of military necessity and expediency lightly and too easily. That doctrine is the heart of the curse which our enemies have brought upon mankind, and there have been many alarming signs in the past few months that the infection has come into the stream of our own reasoning. It is a mortal infection if it spreads; let us then be very vigilant against those who would justify whatever they may happen to be doing or whatever it occurs to them it would be convenient to do on the grounds of "military necessity."

Not everything that a general or an admiral happens to believe is to be accepted without question. Never must we relinquish the fundamental principle of our constitutional existence which is the supremacy of the civilian over the military power. And we must be no less scrupulously on guard against an even subtler danger several times apparent in recent months, which is the tendency of civilian officials to invoke military necessity and to hide behind the soldiers in carrying out their own debatable policies.

Author of the Week

By John Selby

Associated Press Book Reviewer.

PHILIP GUEDALLA

PHILIP GUEDALLA combines two tragedies to form one book, "The Two Marshals." Marshal Bazaine is the center of more than two-thirds of the book, and Bazaine's tragedy is that after he had done his best for France, France crucified him. Petain's tragedy is the opposite, as Mr. Guedalla explains it.

For Petain did his duty as he saw it. Guedalla says, was stubbornly wrong about it and when the opportunity came, Petain crucified France. Bazaine began a private and ended a marshal of France, making the journey solely on his merit. When in 1870, the Germans were winning a war that began strangely as the present war and that of 1914-18 began, it was Bazaine's bad luck to be in command at Metz and dependent upon the bare chance that Mac-Mahon might be able to join him with his army. Mac-Mahon allowed himself to be trapped, and later was retorted to with some sarcasm as "the illustrious conquered." Bazaine held out until there were no more horses to eat, and was forced to surrender. But France, particularly the Third Republic, needed someone to whom all the faults of France could be fixed for political purposes of the moment and Bazaine's services in North Africa, Mexico, Spain and elsewhere were forgotten.

On the other hand Petain remained consistent from the moment he entered officers school. He was child, determined, hard-headed and in spite of a belief in fire power and air power, he remained convinced of two things. He preferred the defensive, and he believed concrete forts would protect France. Politically he inclined to army rule, and, as Mr. Guedalla shows, some of his sentiments as far back as the first World war were totalitarian.

Early he formed friendships for Laval and for Goering. In Spain, he was close to Rivera and later to Franco. He appeared to have foreknowledge of the events of May, 1940, and his determination that France was defeated before she actually was remained unshaken. He ran in Hitler's harness placidly until, like Bazaine at Metz, Hitler ate both horse and harness. And, alas, France.

Forgotten Men

California does not want any forgotten men in its prisons—inmates who have paid their debt to society but are kept under lock and key because no one is sufficiently interested to help them obtain their release.

This is one of the aims of a new program for rehabilitation of prison inmates, reports Public Administration Clearing House. Upon release from prison and discharge from parole, any former felon may file with local authorities notice of intention to apply for a certificate of rehabilitation. The local judicial council will fix the rehabilitation period.

At its expiration and after the applicant has lived three years in the county where the action is proposed, the case may be taken to superior court for determination. If the superior court judge is convinced of the applicant's reformation, he may issue a certificate of rehabilitation restoring all the former prison inmate's civil rights except the right to act as a trustee and the right to hold public office. Copies of such certificates are transmitted to the governor and constitute applications for full pardon.

Ultimate effect of the new program probably will be to transfer to the court all clemency applications involving old crimes, and any legal actions involving men and women who have completed their periods of imprisonment and parole supervision. Such action will leave the governor and his advisory board the task of considering in detail only the clemency applications of persons in custody who charge miscarriage of justice, and the cases of persons who live in other states and are not able to take advantage of provision of the new rehabilitation law.

It was estimated during debate on the new California statute that fully 60 per cent of petitions to the governor for pardons come from discharged prisoners who would be eligible for rehabilitation and restoration of civil rights under the new program.

BEYOND ITALY LIES THE ALPS

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Monday, July 24, 1933. City police cleared up two "mysteries" after each had caused a momentary stir in the community. An explosion felt in various parts of the city was traced to quarry blasting near Marion. Meanwhile, a search of McKinley park lake for a "mystery package" tossed into the lake several days before ended when it was disclosed a motorist had tossed a big turtle into the lake as he drove by.

Will Rogers, writing from Truckee, Calif., about the recent governors' conference said, "Yesterday they (governors) all planted a tree at Lake Tahoe so we at least got 'em working for the first time since they been in offices. It's the first reforestation camp for governors. It will just about be the Democrats' luck to plant trees all over the country, and about the time they are big enough to harvest, the Republicans will be back in, or is that too early?"

The city's first official request to share in federal public works funds was made when council asked the state highway department to seek funds for reconditioning North Main street from George street to Copeland avenue and Kenton avenue from the Erie railroad to the west corporation.

The Marion Civic orchestra and The Mimes, two entertainment groups, shared the spotlight at the second Marion Chautauqua season program in Garfield park.

Miss Hope Fisher of Worcester, Mass., arrived to spend a month with her father, C. C. Fisher of Mt. Vernon avenue.

WITH THE U. S. ARMY SOMEWHERE IN SOUTHERN ENGLAND—All Corporal Julian D. Brazemore of Blackville, S. C., wants to see is a horse. Autonomous Vatican City

Papal State Contains 109 Acres.

VATICAN CITY, spared in the ruinous raid on Rome by the All-American air armada, is the world's smallest state, an administrative island completely surrounded by Italy.

The Vatican, as sovereign, independent and separate city state recognized as having the usual political, civil and diplomatic appurtenances of empires and kingdoms, has its own army, money and postage stamps.

The City crowns an eminence from which a soothsaying king of legendary Rome gave to the people his "vaticinia," supposed messages from the gods, says National Geographic Society. The ridge which constitutes the site was outside Rome's ancient limits. Total area is about 109 acres—about one-eighth that of New York City's Central Park.

Despite its small size, Vatican City includes the world's largest church, St. Peter's; has a Pontifical Palace of 1,000 rooms, contains a well-equipped observatory, a mint, power plant, and printing presses for its newspaper and bulletins. It has gardens and courts, a school, postoffice, grocery store, garage, jail, and air-raid shelters.

Among the modern facilities is a powerful broadcasting station. Before 1929, communication with the outside world was limited to a few telephones. Telephone service now links the papal offices with all countries. A double-tracked railway line 600 feet long is a notable convenience. A 300-foot tunnel under Vatican Hill serves as the "yards." The letters S. C. V. (Stato della Citta re Vaticann), appear on the tags of all motor cars belonging to the City's thousand residents.

Industries include tapestry weaving, mosaics, book binding, repair of ancient and damaged manuscripts and documents. Sale of postage stamps to tourists was an active business. So well stocked are the Vatican's museums, picture galleries and libraries it has been said that a visitor could not view all their treasures if he took a lifetime.

For its "standing army," Vatican City looks to its picturesque Swiss Guard, a German-speaking corps whose members Switzerland has provided since the 16th century. The corps has about 100 men—roughly one guard for each acre of territory. The Italian papal gendarmery of 100 men and three officers is an additional protective force.

Before unification of Italy in 1870 the papal territory stretched across mid-Italy from sea to sea and included more than 3,000,000 people. From 1870 to 1928, the Vatican was the property of the Italian government, and use rested on government grant.

What had become known as "the Roman question" was peacefully settled in 1929. Italy recognized the Holy See's absolute power and sovereign jurisdiction within Vatican City. The See recognized the kingdom of Italy under the rule of the house of Savoy, with Rome as the capital of the Italian state. A cash indemnity of more than $39,000,000 plus Italian government bonds to the amount of about $52,500,000 was paid the See for the loss of its temporal possessions.

Diplomatic relations were established between the Italian and papal governments. Before the war, more than 30 nations had sent accredited representatives to the Vatican.

Relief in Sight

Book Publishers and Movie Moguls Pull String on War Adventure Stories and Thus Ends an Era.

By DAMON RUNYON

THE representative of a big eastern book publishing house who has just made a selling tour of the nation tells me that his firm's fall list does not carry one war book, fact or fiction, and that dealers everywhere practically embrace him when he passes out the information.

This is likely to be gratifying to newspaper owners. They may accept it as an augury that other book publishers will adopt the same policy and thus release a vast amount of waste paper that has been hoarded up by authors who are writing or contemplate writing war works and that might be converted into newsprint. Between the hoarding authors and government leaflet throwers, the newspaper fellows are really in a catch of a fix for paper.

But I fear my announcement will act as a depressant on the authors themselves. Besides the paper, they have also undoubtedly accumulated a large number of words for which they will have no immediate use. I am not so sure the newspaper owners would get any considerable paper relief from a book shortage because the authors might require much of the pulp as fuel to warm their attics when the winter winds blow.

I LIKE to think of authors in attics. I confess I never saw an author in an attic. In fact I never saw an attic, but it sounds romantic. The poor devil, shivering there at a battered kitchen table, his numbed fingers pushing his pencil by the dim light of a flickering candle, a few crusts of bread his only sustenance, yet with fame and fortune lurking around the corner for him when he finished his war books, "I Suffered at the Savoy."

It certainly sounds more romantic than the picture of Louis Bromfield, for instance, in his great mansion, mid his mellowing Ohio acres lolling at his huge mahogany desk, dictating to a beautiful blonde at $8 per word. That is $8 per word to Louis, not the blonde. If I have understated the situation and the price, I beg Mr. Bromfield's pardon. Perhaps the desk is not mahogany, but teak.

Speaking of war books, I heard of a sad thing that happened to a dealer on the west coast not long ago. The floor of his store collapsed under the weight of his stock of literature of that type and he was precipitated into the basement under such a vast amount of print that when the rescue squad found him he was so flattened out that they put him in the newest volume of personal adventures of somebody as a book plate.

Movie exhibitors, according to the trade journals and other sources, claim their cash customers also are surfeited with war pictures, which must be gloomy tidings for the producing companies with big backlogs of such cinema material. The report scarcely jibes with the prodigious business being done by movie houses everywhere, but the exhibitors say the customers want musicals and comedies and other pictures that are away from the war.

IT is not that the people have lost interest in the war, it is just that book readers and movie-goers have probably had too much of the same diet. Probably, too, the increasing number of persons who have received those dreadful notices from the war department accounts for the growing apathy toward war literature and war movie fare. They do not want to be constantly reminded of their sorrow. You frequently hear reports of sobbing women fleeing from theaters showing realistic war pictures. The greatest war pictures of the last war were made long after hostilities ceased. The greatest war books have been written after our wars. In two instances, the authors of great books on the Civil war were not born until years after Appomatox.

One was "The Red Badge of Courage" by Stephen Crane, who incidentally wrote another story, "The Open Boat," after he had seen war that might have been written today so closely does it parallel the numerous cases of men adrift in boats and on rafts in this war.

The other instance was Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With The Wind," from which came the highest grossing picture in the history of the movie industry, and some think its greatest picture.

Let the authors be of good cheer. All they have to do is live long enough, and war books will return to favor, but in the meantime they might lend or lease that paper to the newspapers.

Every time we catch up with them (the Italians), they surrender. That's the main trouble.—Canadian officer in Sicily.

The washing got me. Washing that white uniform every night. I wanted to see action, but not over a washboard.—Boy of 13, reclaimed from navy by parents.

The men and women who are producing America's tools of war have it in their power to shorten the war by months.—WPB Chairman Donald Nelson.

You can't run a place like this from a resort.—Warden Roy Best of Colorado penitentiary.

Jim's "Vacation"

WASHINGTON—"Big Jim" Farley, in town for a few days for activities purely social, is telling the boys that any of the political pundits who say that his trip to Mexico City is anything but a vacation are just crawling out on the limb.

Mebbe so. Mebbe the ex-chairman of the Democratic National Committee is just going to stop off at Uvalde, Texas, to take ex-Vice President John Nance Garner a case of soda pop to mix with his branch water and to discuss the kind of weather nature makes.

If there is real trouble hatching for the fourth term within the party, it would be pretty hard to make any one believe that its anti-Democratic arch foes won't do a little fence-settin' down at Uvalde. Maybe what Genial Jim meant by vacation was vacation from the beverage export business. If Farley ever takes a vacation from politics, no one ever can get him at it.

CAP Rates High

WASHINGTON—Those in the know here are predicting that the Civil Air Patrol is due for wartime activity that will go right on in the post-war world.

Although now an auxiliary of the U. S. Army Air Forces (which proves its wartime value since it is the only civilian volunteer organization that the war department has ever sought to bring under its wing) the CAP is fast become a civilian life saving and disaster combat corps equalled only by the peacetime Coast Guard.

While there isn't any talk of putting CAP volunteer workers on a wage basis, it is rumored that a move may be started when congress reconvenes to extend to those credited with suitable hours of service some of the veterans' benefits.

Captured Paratrooper Shot by Italians, Left for Dead

Captain Wounds Bound Prisoner, But He Escapes To Return to American Lines Later.

By STEPHEN BARBER
AP War Correspondent

..., July 24—A story of ... was captured by the Italians ..., shot seven times and ... dead, and yet escaped ... his way back to the American lines, was told yesterday ... Private Michael Scambulluri of Albany, N. Y., a paratrooper who is recovering ... base hospital in the ...

... landed in an area ... enemy troops and was ... and captured before ... join his mates.

"The Italians took me to town ... stripped me of everything I ..., including food," he said. "I was led to a captain's office in the ... barracks and asked a ... questions about how many soldiers had been landed and what kind of arms we carried.

Refused Information

"I told them only my name, rank and serial number and refused all other information. When I spoke to the captain in Italian, giving the name of the town, he became enraged and accused me of being a spy. He ordered my hands tied behind my back and I was led out of the barracks and stood against a wall in the courtyard.

"It looked as though they were going to begin some rough stuff. I wasn't far wrong. The captain walked about 20 feet away from me, took out his revolver and fired one shot at me.

"All hell seemed to burn inside of me and I collapsed. The captain continued firing at me, pouring six more shots into me as I lay there on the ground. I was moaning and did not know what to do, but did know that I was not hurt in any vital spot."

Scambulurri said a soldier, apparently dissatisfied with his captain's work, lobbed two hand grenades in his direction, the force of which spun him around completely. He added, however, that he was still conscious when he heard the captain give orders for his burial the following morning.

"I heard the group walk away," he continued, "and when it got quiet I wiggled to a tree about 20 feet away and worked myself to my feet. I don't know where I got the strength, but I managed to get out of the place and across the fields into some nearby woods.

"I half walked, half crawled through the brush until I came across an old, deserted cemetery. I stopped and sawed through the ropes binding my hands on the edge of a sharp gravestone."

Scambulluri said he tore his wrists so badly in getting free that he collapsed. When he recovered consciousness he made his way through the woods and at dawn was found by a group of civilians, who ran to him crying, "Peace. Peace."

They helped him to where the American soldiers were advancing, and he was given first aid and taken to a field hospital.

But that wasn't the end of Scambulurri's story. After he was placed aboard a hospital ship it was bombed and sunk at its moorings. Later another hospital ship brought him to safety.

(Allied headquarters in North Africa announced last week that a hospital ship, brightly illuminated and clearly marked, had been bombed and sunk off the Sicilian cost during the early days of the invasion.)

Hogs Marketed At Heavier Weights Than Last Year

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 24—Statistics indicated hogs were being marketed at heavier weights today than was the case last year and some livestock experts said that despite this fact lard recovery was smaller.

Commenting on the situation, F. A. Miller of James E. Bennett and Co., said, "there is supposed to be a support price on certain classes of hogs at $13.75 and there is now a ceiling on hogs at $14.75, but there are no comments about any change in lard ceilings.

"Meantime statistics show that hogs have been the heaviest in weight on record for July due to fall pigs being fed to heavier weights on advice from the department of agriculture that lard was needed for the war. Statistics show that during the first five months of the year the average weight of hogs was 253 pounds, against 237 pounds a year ago.

"Fat recovery this year was about 31½ pounds per hog, although 32½ pounds was recovered during the same period last year when the average weight was 16 pounds less per hog.

"Farmers and feeders apparently have done their part in producing the necessary fats but there certainly would seem to be something wrong with the recovery system and it is likely due to the lard ceiling being so much below the cost of the dressed hog. Meanwhile, maintenance of the ceiling on corn at $1.07 means that corn will continue to be marketed through feeding channels and it would appear, unless there is some decidedly definite change in recovery methods or the ceiling on lard, that not only will corn but also lard continue to be wasted."

At the same time the corn-hog feeding ratio at Chicago for the week ended July 17 again declined 3-10 of a point to 12.7. Federally inspected slaughter at 27 leading centers last week was 25 per cent larger than in the previous week and 35 per cent larger than a year ago.

The war food administration commented, "the increased slaughter reflects large farm marketings of live hogs. Producers with insufficient feed supplies to last until the new crops are harvested are believed to be liquidating their meat animal inventories."

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, July 25

SUNDAY'S horoscope emphasizes the social, cultural, artistic, and affectional relationships, with much activity in celebrations, visiting, parties and all pleasant avocations of the young and sentimental. Professions and necessary business transactions should enjoy growth and expansion, with pleasant and profitable contacts, especially with influential and friendly persons. But maintain calm, control and shun impetuous or aggressive moves.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a successful and pleasant year with much activity—professional, literary, artistic and business as well. These should bring enhanced popularity and prestige. Affectional ties and festivities may be paramount, perhaps in celebration of engagements or marriages. In all maintain poise, self-control and harmony, lest impetuosity and hasty words or acts cause unhappiness.

A child born on this day may be active, have many social graces and intellectual talents, promising prestige and popularity, if it will control its impulses and unkind speech, with proper regard for others.

For Monday, July 26

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a day of singular, strange, unique and quite unpredictable experiences, in which the vague, subtle and obscure may be conditions to be reckoned with. But exercise prudence, skill and discernment. With these, high hopes and ideals may materialize. Domestic, financial, social, affectional and spiritual aspirations should flourish, under peculiar auspices.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of peculiar, strange, or mystifying experiences, calling for prudent and discriminating conduct. In home, business, and especially in emotional and spiritual matters there may be subtle or mysterious conditions, but withal happy and gratifying. Work in finely creative artistic channels for exceptional growth or inspired expression. Popularity, honors, profitable connections may result from fidelity to high aspirations and ideals.

A child born on this day may have great creative ability, appreciation and honors, with good luck as well.

type of schools that would be a source of pride to Marion.

In the discussion that followed, one person in the audience said she came from another city where the tax bills were substantially higher than in Marion but where the schools were considered definitely superior to Marion's. "You just get what you pay for," she commented.

When comparison of teacher salaries with those in industry was mentioned another person in the audience declared she knew women operators on an assembly line in one Marion war plant received $36.50 a week, well above what the average teacher makes.

When someone asked whether school financing could be simplified by letting pupils buy their textbooks instead of the schools furnishing them, Mr. Holt answered that the law requires the schools to furnish the texts.

At the close of the meeting, a meeting of the City Council of Parent-Teacher associations was held at which it was voted to have pamphlets summarizing the levy situation printed and distributed.

SCOUT CAMP

the aquatic section curriculum received a considerable let-down this spring when it was learned that construction of the proposed camp swimming pool would not be completed until after the scheduled close of the camping season.

Hay reports Verrol Orth, Eagle Scout of Troop 15 in Marion, will be waterfront director this year. Orth graduated from the National Scout Aquatic school at Camp Miakonda, Sylvania, early in June. He was drilled in a stiff week-long course on advanced life saving and waterfront policy.

To Direct Program

Hay will be officially in charge of the camp this year although actual operation will be in the hands of G. L. Rader, Scoutmaster of Troop 38 and superintendent of the Sycamore schools. His title will be provisional Scoutmaster, the same position Orth will hold. Hay says he will act more in the post of camp counselor and coordinator.

Dr. Robert T. Gray, physician and Eagle Scout of Troop 23, of Prospect, will serve as camp doctor. He will have charge of rechecking physical examinations of all Scouts in attendance and will at regular intervals make a check on the general health standards of the camp.

Donald Coldwell, Floyd Webb, Robert Mason and Miles Doyle, all Harding area Scouts, will act as assistants to Provisional Scoutmasters Rader and Orth.

Details of Plans

Following are some of the subdivisions in the main parts of the camp program this year.

Water front—Swimming, water polo, water carnivals, diving and various other water games.

Handicraft—Leather craft, wood carving, totem pole-making, metal working and camping equipment.

Nature trails—Early morning bird hikes which will include study of trees, flowers and plants and shrub identification.

Sports—Softball, volley ball, badminton, horse shoes and all other sports connected with the athletic merit badge.

A new softball diamond was constructed this spring and a backstop is being installed. This year will be the first Owens season for softball to a great extent.

Nature study will be under the permanent direction of Robert Mason and Orth but O. H. Neimeyer, state game warden of Marion county, will at times conduct classes and hikes in the [illegible] conservation methods and [illegible] of the habitats and peculiar [illegible] of the animals [illegible].

Camp Session Themes

Each of the three camp sessions will have a special theme. [illegible] last week will be known as "Treasure Island Week" [illegible] and "Explorers' Gold Rush" [illegible] and the last, "Indian Pageant Week." Various expeditions [illegible] adventure trips will be held each week to carry out the respective theme.

Finishing touches were made this last week on all the camp buildings and other structures with the application of a coat of paint. For several weeks the camp has undergone face-lifting and is now considered by Scout officials to be in "tip-top condition" and ready for intense usage.

Three Democracies Favor Peacetime Military Training

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 24—In the United States, in Canada, and now in Australia, public opinion has spoken in favor of making all young men go through a period of military training before taking up their civilian jobs in the post-war years.

Cabled results from the Australian Institute of Public Opinion with which is affiliated the British, United States, Canadian, and Swedish polls, show that in the antipodes, support of such compulsory training is even stronger than in Canada or the United States.

Here was the question put to representative voters in all three democracies by public opinion survey organizations:

"After the war is over, do you think every able-bodied young man should be required to serve one year in the Army, Navy, or Air Force?"

The results follow:

	Yes	No	Undecided
Australia	78%	7%	14%
Canada	56	34	10
United States	66	27	7

The higher vote in Australia for post-war military preparedness is undoubtedly accounted for by the imminence of actual invasion of Australia by the Japanese not so many months ago.

Australians face a wartime labor situation in their coal mines similar to that in the United States. Serious stoppages in the Australian mines have tied up production of coal for months on end.

The Australian Institute has found that a majority of the populace would attack this problem in a manner similar to the policy adopted in the United States—government operation of the mines. But, while favoring this drastic step in wartime, the Australian people do not, speaking for the majority, want government operation of the coal mines after the war. This point of view was ascertained by a series of polls, one of which was based on this question:

"During the war, should the coal mines be operated by the government, or should the owners be left in charge?"

Operated by government	62%
Owners in charge	24
Undecided	14

A second question was this:

"After the war, should the coal mines be operated by the government, or should the owners be left in charge?"

To this one, support swung to private ownership and operation:

Operated by government	37%
Owners in charge	46
Undecided	17

Points To Watch for Developments Good Key to War

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

When we put the magnifying glass on this accelerating world war of ours we become acutely aware that we are involved in numerous individual crises, both military and political—the sort of hot-spots one logs down and sticks in one's hat as a reminder to keep an eye on them for quick developments — and here, apart from the allied avalanche sweeping Sicily, are some worth watching:

Italo-German relations: Indications increase that Hitler and Mussolini may be close to a parting of the ways, due to the fuehrer's inability—or disinclination—to give badly needed additional aid to a stooge who has ceased to be useful.

Morale of the Italian people: This interlocks with the preceding crisis. There's no doubt that a vast number of Italians are fed up with Mussolini and the war. Many of them would be glad to throw the duce overboard and make a separate peace, if they had leadership. If that leadership appears, something is likely to break.

Relations between the Vatican and the Allies: Possibly the term "crisis is too strong to be used in connection with the aftermath of the bombing of Rome. However, it certainly is a matter of moment when there's any difference of opinion between the leaders of the United Nations and his holiness, the Pope, to whom a worldwide religious empire looks for guidance.

Red drive on Orel: The near encirclement of this city, in face of fierce Boche resistance, represents more than a threat to a single strong point and the great German army defending it. Orel is the pivotal fortress for hundreds of miles of the Nazi line south of Moscow. Its fall might produce a collapse of Hitlers entire right flank, against which the Reds are beginning to fling heavy attacks.

The situation is particularly dangerous to the Germans in view of the Allied threat of a drive up through the Balkans towards that right wing. Berlin says 9,000,000 men all told are battling along the Russo-Nazi front.

Turkey's Neutrality: If the Allies do invade the Balkans, will the Turks at long last abandon neutrality and join them, or at least permit passage of United Nations troops through Turkish territory? That might happen for the Turks are the friends of the Allies. It would be a momentous development.

Invasion of Kiska: We probably shall see an American amphibious operation against this Jap occupied Aleutian island soon. While this isn't a major crisis, it's of great importance Kiska is the last foothold the Japs have in these American islands. In their hands this base is a threat of sorts against Alaska, a hindrance to our operations from Alaska against Nipponeseterritory, and an interference with our northern communications to Russia.

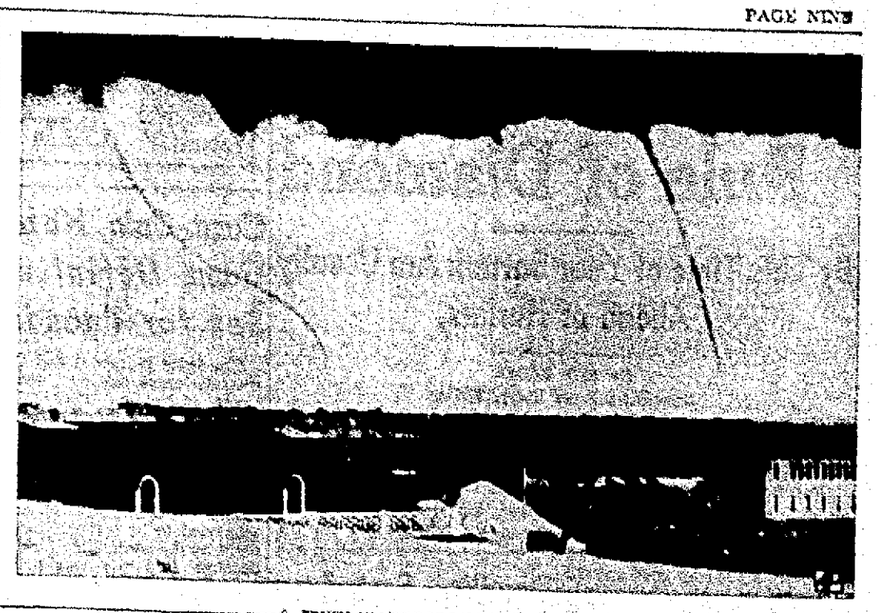

Munda and Salamau: Munda, key base of the Japs on New Georgia island in the southwest Pacific, is officially reported to be at last "in reach of capture." Violent fighting with all three arms—air, land and sea—has marked the battle for this strategic position. Our final assault may be under way even as this is written. Westward on the great island of New Guinea our forces are driving northward against another important Japanese base—Salamaua, of bloody history.

Possession of Munda and Salamaua might provide the additional leverage to oust the Mikado's barbarians from that whole vast area of the southwest Pacific.

In this connection a Japanese officer has broadcast from Tokyo to his people the declaration that the situation in the southwest Pacific is "becoming increasingly dark" because of "fierce and tragic battles." to this he adds:

"We must recognize that the south Pacific war has now entered a stage where a decisive battle must be fought to determine the victor."

This undoubtedly is a correct estimate of the position, and the great battle which undoubtedly is boiling up represents another of the major crises of this war.

Historic Palermo Falls Without a Shot in Defense

By The Associated Press

PALERMO, July 22—(Delayed)—Historic Palermo, capital and largest city on Sicily, fell today without firing a shot in its own defense to American infantry and armored columns converging from three directions.

Doughboys—walking soldiers—won the race tramping to the outskirts of the city about noon from the southwest after a 60-mile advance from Castelvetrano during which they had to halt three times to knock out harassing artillery pieces.

Happy that his forces avoided shelling into submission this city known throughout the world for its ancient churches, temples and monuments which make it a living tomb of Phoenician, Greek, Byzantine, Saracen, Norman, Spanish and early French civilization, the American deputy commander under Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton Jr. accepted the surrender.

Italian officers, bags packed, had been waiting all day to hand over the town of from 400,000 to 500,000 population. The Germans were out last night.

The harbor area has been heavily damaged by the allied bombings. The city itself bore the scars of bombs but the damage is not as extensive as that visited upon a number of other Sicilian towns.

Troops who rolled into Palermo at dusk received a hearty welcome. The populace cheered, threw gifts of flowers and fruit and poured free wine in the greatest demonstration most of them had ever seen. Italian soldiers still in uniform lined the streets by the hundreds and joined in the cheers. Some of them were so glad to be out of the war they even ran out and kissed the hands of the American soldiers rolling past in half-tracks.

One of the famous German 88-millimeter pieces which attempted to bar the American armored advance on the city was blasted to pieces by four perfect shots from an American 75-millimeter assault gun at less than 500 yards.

When the Nazi piece opened fire on a reconnaissance column led by Capt. Hugh R. O'Farrell of Athens, Ga., the husky young officer pulled his men back beyond the brow of a hill and called up one of the crack self-propelled assault guns. It charged around a bend and wheeled into position in full view of the German gun.

Before it could let go Gunner Corp. Bennie Kulig of Independence, Wis., had the German weapon dead in his sights and his first shot sent the enemy gunners scrambling for cover. The loader, Private Andrew J. Shewmake of Munroe, Tenn., slapped in another shell and Kulig smashed a great hole through the 88's shield. Its ammunition burst into flame.

Kulig then swung the 75 over a couple of degrees and pitched two shells into the German gun's main ammunition dump. Bright flame and black smoke rolled skyward and chunks of twisted metal casing showered hundreds of feet away.

Our patrols went forward after that and brought back 11 Germans and four Italians who had operated the gun, but the German lieutenant who commanded them escaped.

BROWN CRITICIZES PETERSON BILL VETO

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 24—Terming President Roosevelt's pocket veto of the Peterson bill "an outstanding example of the Chief Executive's thwarting the rights of a free people," State Agriculture Agent John J. Brown today importuned Ohio congressmen to obtain enactment of the legislation which would make commodities shipped by federal agencies subject to state inspection laws.

"The resolution provided protection to the farmers against shipment and sale of seeds, feeds and fertilizer in the various states by federal agencies in defiance of state inspection laws," Brown said in letters to the legislators.

"Instances are numerous of heavy loss of hard earned dollars by farmers buying seed of low vitality and sometimes full of noxious weeds. • • •

"Last fall, Nathan Mayo, commissioner of agriculture of Florida, seized supplies of Triple A (agricultural adjustment administration) commodities shipped into Florida in defiance of state inspection laws.

"An injunction suit was filed by the Triple A, which finally found determination in the U. S. supreme court. An adverse decision resulted in the establishment of the right of the federal government to ship such commodities into any state in defiance of state inspection laws."

PALERMO FALLS TO AMERICANS. American forces under Lt. George S. Patton Jr., continuing their rapid advance in western Sicily, swung northward to capture the island capital, Palermo (solid arrow) and split the Axis troops. Meanwhile, Patton's forces charged at Marsala and Trapani (open arrows). Canadians captured Ramacca in drive toward Gerbini and the British struggled to seize Catania (flag symbols and arrows). Gasoline "B" And "C" Regulations Changed Today

Effective today, motorists will not be required to apply for a renewal of their "B" or "C" ration for occupational mileage simply because the period for which the coupons were issued has expired, and the coupons thereby rendered invalid, OPA officials at Columbus announced today. They may continue to use them until they have obtained a renewal of the old ration. This also applies to non-highway users holding "E" and "R" coupons.

Previously rations could not be used after they expired and regulations required that coupons so invalidated be surrendered to local boards within five days after expiration. In the future all "B" books outside the shortage area will be issued for the same length of time—three months. Individual rations will be tailored by tearing out coupons. (Amendment 67 to Ration Order 50, effective July 24.)

Americans Take Marsala At Cost of Two Wounded

By The Associated Press

WITH THE AMERICAN SEVENTH ARMY IN SOUTHWEST SICILY, July 22—American troops took Marsala, westernmost port of Sicily, with their only casualties a couple of men injured by snipers' bullets.

Salemi, 15 miles north of Castelvetrano, proved to be a vacation jaunt to the hard-fighting troops. The town, which is on one of the main road networks, tossed in the sponge without a struggle.

Describing Marsala, a town of 30,000 population, Lieut. Col. John T. Toffey of Wyoming, O., said: "We got in last night and the Italian troops surrendered by the thousands. There is getting to be so many of them now they are cluttering up the highways and getting to be a real military traffic problem.

McCarrens Condition Reported Satisfactory

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 24—John S. McCarrens, 74-year-old general manager of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, was in "satisfactory" condition today after a fifth blood transfusion was administered in an effort to aid his recovery from three bullet wounds inflicted by a gunman who then killed himself.

Dr. O. A. Weber, who removed a bullet from the publisher's abdomen said "Mr. McCarrens' condition is satisfactory."

He was shot Thursday afternoon in his office on the fourth floor of the Plain Dealer building by Herbert L. Kobrak, 59.

In an opinion refusing wage increases to Los Angeles transit workers, the WLB told labor it should "look to what is likely to happen if that (stabilization) program is broken down."

The President gave no indications of what turn the anti-inflation talks were taking, simply saying the administration was seeking to reorganize the fight with a new price control and stabilization program.

Concerning Taft's proposed program, Russell and Hatch voiced partial approval, the former saying: "I don't see how we are going to avoid an upward adjustment of prices and wages."

'You Have the Ball, Play,' Patton Tells Commander

By The Associated Press

WITH THE AMERICAN SEVENTH ARMY IN SICILY, July 22—(Delayed)—An American force commander yesterday sent this message to Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., the American commander:

"Can we make a touchdown on our own initiative. Rush reply."

Thirty minutes later the answer came back, "You have the ball. Play."

With this go ahead the American armored column swung north toward Palermo, the capital of Sicily.

EVEN PATTON AMAZED BY PALERMO GREETING

By The Associated Press

PALERMO, Sicily, July 23—(Delayed)—The Yanks are swarming through this great capital of Sicily today while most of the approximately 400,000 inhabitants are cheering their presence and welcoming them with an amazing show of hospitality.

Even an old campaigner like Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., is slightly bewildered by the enthusiastic reception given him and his men.

"They even threw flowers, lemons and water melons," he chuckled. "But it should be emphasized that all the fruit was tosed to us in a spirit of friendliness."

Pattan termed the drive on Palermo the "greatest blitz in history."

UTAH GUNMAN KILLS FIVE WITH SHOTGUN

By The Associated Press

OGDEN Utah, July 24—A gunman killed five persons—one of them a district judge who had granted the assailant's wife a divorce—in bloody attacks at two Ogden homes, then fired a final shotgun blast at the police station where he was captured early today.

The dead:

District Judge Lewis V. Trueman, 55.

Mrs. Jane Stauffer, 29.

Mrs. Burton, about 55, of Rigby, Idaho, Mrs. Stauffer's mother.

Mrs. Betty A. Brooks, a neighbor of Mrs. Stauffer.

Sam Nelson, 49, another neighbor.

Mrs. Stauffer's husband, Bert Stauffer, 35, was critically injured, and Mrs. Brooks' husband, F. Dale Brooks, was shot in the hand.

A policeman was nicked in the ear by the final blast at the police station.

Sheriff John R. Watson said the gunman was Austin Cox Jr., of Ogden. He said Cox' wife recently obtained a divorce in Judge Trueman's court. She accused her husband, Watson said, of beating her and of once trying to tear her tongue out.

With a manhunt on after the shootings had been reported, Cox drove up unnoticed behind the police station.

Lt. John A. Smith, assistant provost marshal of the Ogden area, on duty at the station, said Cox, tall and gaunt, entered the door, his 12-gauge shotgun in his hands.

One shot went wild, and Smith said he jumped at Cox, knocking the man to the ground. Other officers rushed to aid him.

G.O.P. To Lay Foundation For 1944 Platform

WASHINGTON, July 24—The foundation for a 1944 platform from which to challenge the three-term New Deal's power will be sought by national Republican leaders at a meeting Sept. 8 and 9 at Mackinac Island, Mich.

Invited to attend are the 49 G.O.P. members of the official Republican postwar advisory council organized by National Chairman Harrison E. Spangler last May. While Spangler does not expect the group to hear non-members now, after subcommittees have been set up, men like Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 G.O.P. presidential nominee, former President Herbert Hoover, and Alf M. Landon, the party's 1936 standard bearer, will be consulted, he said.

Gov. Bricker of Ohio, a member of the council, said he planned to attend the meeting and make some suggestions. He declined to elaborate.

Planes and Warships Hit Enemy on Kiska

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 24—The navy disclosed today that heavy American air raids preceded and followed the American warships' bombardment on Japanese positions on Kiska island Thursday.

As a result of the combined operations, enemy coastal batteries, anti-aircraft positions and building areas were hit, many fires were started and one large explosion was observed.

The communique also disclosed that Canadian fliers are participating in the campaign to soften up Japanese defenses on Kiska, stating that some of the fighter planes in the attack were piloted by RCAF fliers.

One American plane was shot down by anti-aircraft fire but the crew was rescued.

Seven reservations have been made by Marion county women for the annual rural women's camp to be held at Camp Pittenger, near McCutchenville, from Aug. 5 to Aug. 8, Mrs. Christine Cook, county home demonstration agent, reported today. This county's quota has been established at 15 reservations by the state agricultural extension office and women are urged by Mrs. Cook to make their reservations as soon as possible. Pitchers Reverse Rule of Diamond

By This Time of Year Batters Are Usually Ahead of Hurlers.

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

It has been one of the diamond's oldest traditions that the pitchers are always in front of the batters in the spring, but that the hitters invariably catch up with the elbowers come summer.

Yet, here is the campaign well into the second halt, and if yesterday's proceedings are any indication, the flingers are far in front. In five of the day's nine games, the hurlers got out the whitewash brush; half a dozen of the losers served up good enough performances to win on practically any other day; five of the tussles were decided by one run; two went into extra innings, and 1 of the 18 elbowing jobs were eight-hitters or better.

The St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees stayed 5½ and 6½ games in front in the pennant parades, respectively, with a couple of 1-0 decisions. The Cards did it to New York's woeful Giants on a combination five-hit job by Harry Gumbert and Howie Krist, although Ken Chase tossed a six-hitter. The Yanks belted the Brownies of St. Louis back into sixth place with Bank Borowy going the route for the first time in seven weeks, and firing a five-hitter for the Yanks, but Denny Galehouse did even better, with a three-hit heartbreaker.

Another 1-0 job was chalked up by Mel Harder with a four-hit win for the Cleveland Indians over the Athletics.

With the help of a major league record-equalling total of 18 put-outs by the Dodger outfield, Whitey Wyatt hurled the Brooklyns to a 2-0 decision over the Cincinnati Reds with a four-hit effort.

The old Chicago Cub expert, Claude Passeau, held the Braves to four safeties and came home with a 5-0 decision. With the help of a two-hit, seven-inning relief trick by Long John Gee, the Pittsburgh Pirates nosed out the Phillies 3-2.

The only places the thumpers knocked the roof in were Boston and Washington. Up in the Hub, the Red Sox and Chicago White Sox split a twin bill with homers. The Red Sox, after trailing 7-2, tied up the opener on Bobby Doerr's four-bagger in the eighth and Pete Fox's three-run homer in the ninth and won out 8-7, with a tally in the tenth. In the nightcap, the Sox took the verdict 5-1, as Buck Ross tossed a seven-hitter.

In Washington the Nats and Detroit Tigers went down to the wire all tied up, but in the tenth inning, the Tigers hit the jackpot for eight runs and a 12-6 victory.

Deadline Sunday for First Round in Golf Tourney

No special one-day tournaments have been scheduled at either the Mar-O-Del or Country club golf courses tomorrow in order to give local linksman a chance to finish uncompleted matches in club events and to sharpen their swings for the return Red Cross tourney between the two clubs next Sunday.

Tomorrow midnight has been set by Bill Schimmel, Country club games chairman, as deadline for all first round matches in the annual President's handicap Trophy of that course. Already almost half of the first round affairs in all three flights have been finished but some of the most promising matches will be played tomorrow.

Andy Dewar, Country club professional, has announced another Stag party for all male members of the club will be held Wednesday afternoon and night. Stags will first tour the course once and then return to the club house for a party and dinner served by Mrs. Dewar, the pro said.

Ben Miller, tournament chairman of Mar-O-Del, has reported plans for a handicap tourney for his club are now being worked out. This event will take the place of the usual Mar-O-Del club tournament, in which no handicaps were alloted.

This handicap tournament will open to anyone who has played at least a round of golf at the course this year, Miller said. However, that person must either hold an official membership status in the club or must have paid green fees when he played this year.

Handicaps for this tourney are being figured by Miller and other Mar-O-Del officials at the present time. Match play for the event will probably not get under way for a few weeks in order to allow sufficient time for tournament heads to devise suitable handicaps based on actual scores posted at the clubhouse, Miller said.

Harry Mounts, co-manager of the Mar-O-Del publinks, has announced the return team match between his layout and the Country club, will be held at Mar-O-Del Sunday, July 31. In the first match, Country club came out on top 37 to 32.

Incorporated in this second benefit match, as well as the first, will be a blind bogey tourney for the benefit of the American Red Cross.

LIMA, O., July 24—The scouting staff assigned to the tryouts for young players to be conducted at Howard field here by the Brooklyn Dodgers next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, was announced today by Branch Rickey, Jr., director of Dodger farm clubs. Heading the Brooklyn ivory-hunting contingent will be the immortal George Sisler, one of baseball's all-time great first basemen. Sisler joined the Dodger scouting staff early this year. With his here will be the veteran Dodger scout, Tom Greenwade, who is rated an exceptionally keen judge of playing talent.

Engineers' Team Travels to Columbus Tomorrow

The Marion Engineer Depot officers' softballers intend to make the scoreboard tell a different story than in their first game with the Columbus General Depot team when they travel to Columbus tomorrow to meet the capital city Depot again. The game, a nine inning affair, is set for 11 a. m.

In a July 4 nine-inning game, the Columbus outfit defeated the locals in a batting spree and a comedy of errors, 32 to 27. However, the field was a mass of mud and water in that tilt and the Marion officers hope the turf will be dry and fast tomorrow in order that they might give the Columbus boys a return pasting.

MENTAL Security

Mankind has always longed for security, planned for it, worked for it and prayed for it. And men have discovered that there is but one safeguard against useless fear and fruitless worry. It is the mental security that comes to one who does the very best he can under all circumstances, and leaves the final decision to a Higher Power whose plans or purposes he cannot discern. On friendly terms with his conscience, he waits unafraid, as he says, "Thy Will Be Done".

Coca-Cola, Huber Game Definitely Set for Tuesday

The inter-Industrial and Commercial league softball game between Huber and Coca-Cola is definitely on for Tuesday night at Lincoln park and nothing less than a cloudburst can cause its postponement again, members of both teams assert.

This contest was originally scheduled to be played Thursday night at the North Side field but because that tilt would have marked the third game in succession for Huber (one of them was the Universal Cooler defeat), the softball commission decided to call the contest off. At a meeting of all city softball managers at the Y.M.C.A. Thursday night, the game was rescheduled for Tuesday night.

Commercial Steel and the Marion Engineer Depot both consented to switch their game from Lincoln park to the south side McKinley park field. With the Huber-Coke tilt at Lincoln park, there will be more than adequate space to house one of the year's largest crowds.

Coke's Commercial loopers will really be wielding dangerous bats and Coxie Weiss, beverage squad hurler, will undoubtedly be lobbing some speedy missiles across the plate against the Threshers. The number one reason for the prospective all-out Coke effort Tuesday night is nut-shelled into this brief statement: Huber defeated Coca-Cola 13 to 2 in the first round. This has been by far the worst licking administered by Coke rivals this year. In fact Coke has finished on the short end only twice this year, and doesn't expect to have Huber chalk up number three on the dark side of the ledger.

All three city park diamonds will be in use Tuesday night as General Excavator's Industrial leaguers will meet the Commercial loop Waldo Dodgers at Garfield park.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 24—The newspapers said Capt. Charles Paddock had been killed in an airplane crash in Alaska . . . it was tragic, but somehow it seemed appropriate. Charley Paddock never did ordinary things in the ordinary way and if he had to go out, it was more like Paddock to come to an end as sudden and sensational as the famous "jump" finish he used to affect in his racing days.

The new of Paddock's death started you thinking — about the days when the "faster human" was knocking off spring records nearly every time he ran; when you were a kid in college reading about him, then a beginning sports writer, trying to follow his amazing career and to understand his tiffs with amateur athletic union officials . . . You never saw Paddock but once; that was in the twilight of his racing career, but that one time was enough to make you realize why he attracted so much attention . . . You first impression was that Charley didn't look like a sprinter. He was only five feet eight, chunky with heavy muscles that gave an immediate impression of power; he looked more like a speedy halfback . . . In a day when most runners still wore drab, loose-fitting pants, Paddock came out in skin-tight scantles with bright-colored trimming—just another of those things that made him stand out from the crowd . . . Then you saw him run, his big legs generating tremendous power to make up for his lack of form, his body flying through the air in a tremendous leap to break the tape, and you recognized him as a champion.

That leap at the finish always caused argument among track fans . . . some claimed it was just for show and that Paddock drove right through in a close race . . . Once he announced that he had abandoned it, except for photographic purposes, but later he insisted that it won races for him and that was why he used it . . . A picture taken in 1920 showed him in full flight to beat Morris Kirksey and Paddock once pointed out that his last stride started nearly three yards from the finish while Kirksey's final step was less than a yard away.

Never a fellow to get along on a diet and minced words, Paddock frequently was at odds with the A. A. U. officials.

Charley wasn't the "fastest human" because his records have stood the test of time . . . He never even got sole possession of the coveted 100-yard mark because when he ran it in 9.5 seconds, tenth-second timing wasn't officially recognized . . . Only a few of his marks for odd distances like 110 yards still are in the books . . . But did you ever hear of another runner who held every record from 100 yards to 300 meters all at the same time?

Brewers Tighten Grip on AA First Place

Their home run power kept the Milwaukee Brewers' grip firm on first place in the American Association last night, and as Indianapolis dropped a wild contest to Minneapolis the Brewers pulled in front by a game and a half.

All of the Milwaukee runs came home as a result of circuit blows in their 4 to 3 defeat of Toledo. Ted Norbert made one with nobody on base in the fourth and Tony York blasted another in the seventh with two mates on base to sew up the decision. The Millers outslugged the Indians for a 12 to 9 decision.

Columbus failed again to gain ground on Indianapolis. The third-place Red Birds nosedived to a 5 to 4 defeat at the hands of last-place Kansas City.

Norman Brown of Louisville turned in a seven-hit pitching job against St. Paul and emerged with a 5 to 2 decision.

HARDER RETURNS AS STARTING PITCHER WITH 1-0 VICTORY

Boudreau Takes 5-Day Beard to Washington for Series Tonight.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 24—Manager Lou Boudreau, sporting a five-day beard and a rejuvenated pitching staff, gets his Cleveland Indians tonight in the opener of a four-game offensive against the Washington Nationals.

Flushed by a five-game winning streak, the Redskins nailed the return of Mel Harder to starting duty after he dealt the Philadelphia Athletics a 1 to 0 defeat in yesterday's series final. The veteran moundsman was injured at St. Louis last May 8.

The victory pulled the tribe into fifth place, a half game behind the Chicago White Sox, and added an extra day's whiskers to Boudreau's face. The Tribe pilot and Coaches George Susce, Del Baker and Burt Shotton have agreed not to shave until the Indians lose and the Philadelphia Record's sports staff jestingly sent a box of razors to the four Clevelanders yesterday.

Harder limited the A's to four singles for his third win against two losses and shared his victory with Ray Mack who homered in the sixth inning for the only run of the game. Don Black yielded six hits.

Allie Reynolds, the rookie who has fanned 59 batters in 52 2-3 innings this season, will seek his fourth triumph in tonight's game against the Senators' Ewald Pyle.

Two Good Races on Randall Track Today

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 24—The H. K. Devereux $1,000 stake and the $1,000 2:20 mile dash highlight today's grand circuit finale at North Randall track.

Speed King, to be driven by Harry Whitney, was favored in the Devereux event and Church Signal with Tommy Berry at the reins was picked for first in the 2:20 trot.

Worthy Boy, owned by Mrs. James J. Johnson of Rochester, Mich., and driven by Sep Palin, upset the advance dope on the $40,000 Hambletonian classic yesterday by taking the $8,412 national stake for three year old trotters.

A bust in last year's Hambletonian, Colby Hanover raced to a straight-heat victory in the $2,517 Messenger stake for aged trotters, stepping the opening mile in 2:02½, best trotting time of the Grand Circuit season.

Brown Sees Teams in Action

COLUMBUS O., July 24 — In the era of frozen pigskins Coach Paul Brown would like to find a way to "freeze" a football so the hands of the 17-year-old gridders who will carry the brunt of Ohio State university's pigskin campaign this fall.

The boys romped through a regulation 60-minute game yesterday as the first-string Reds defeating the Whites, 14 to 7, in a contest marred by numerous fumbles. Despite the ball handling difficulties, however, Brown expressed himself as pleased with the showing.

"Considering that they have only four weeks of practice under their belts, it was very satisfactory," said Brown, who coached the Buckeyes to the 1942 Big Ten and national championships in his second year at Ohio State.

BROOKLYN EVENS SERIES WITH REDS

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, July 24—Still at the .500 mark in the National league standings the Cincinnati Reds open a four-game series with the Philadelphia Phillies this afternoon at Crosley Field.

Ray Starr will be on the hill for the Reds attempting to bag his tenth victory of the year while Newt Kimball will furnish the opposition.

Brooklyn evened things up yesterday by winning a 2 to 0 pitcher's duel to split the series two-all.

Whitlow Wyatt, whose throwing arm has been so sore since May 30 that he has not been able to raise it high enough to pat sunburn lotion on his bald head, hurled a four-hit shutout—besting Johnny Vander Meer who allowed but five bingles.

The Dodger outfield, composed of Lou Olmo, the new Puerto Rican fly-chaser, Augie Galan and Frenchie Bordagaray, equaled a major league record in chalking up 18 put-outs.

Wyatt knocked in the first Dodger run with a two-bagger in the eighth and Olmo pushed the other tally across with a triple in the ninth.

Amateur Golfing Championship To Be Decided Today

Special to The Star

CHICAGO, July 24 — Tam O'Shanter's glamorous triple-header golfing circus closes down the ring today with a decision in the All-American amateur championship.

The finalists were Bob Cochran, a slender 29-year-old paper salesman from St. Louis, Mo., and Dale Morey of Martinsville, Ind., the Hoosier state champion and a member of Louisiana's State University's golfing varsity this spring.

They were all that there were left from a cumbersome field of 252 that swung into the qualifying rounds last Monday, and the championship to be decided is the one vacated by Lieut. Marvin (Bud) Ward of Seattle, Wash., who was unable to defend because of military duties.

The All-American open and the All-American women's meets also were going full blast, entering the third 18-hole rounds.

The professionals were locked in a snug battle with Wilfred Wehrle of Racine, Wis., and Wee Willie Goggin of the Century club of New York tied for the lead at 140. Wehrle, after being bumped out of the All-American amateur Thursday, came back to soften his defeat with a brilliant 68 in the open yesterday, while Goggin registered his second consecutive 70 in the $10,000 event.

Grinning, freckle-faced Patty Berg of Minneapolis seemed to have the women's championship sewed up after her record 72 yesterday which equaled men's par. The chunky redhead has a 36-hole total of 149, with Spar Betty Hicks of Long Beach, Calif., trailing at 153.

PROFIT SALES HURT LEADERS

Some Stocks, However, Hit Peak Prices for a Year or Longer.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 24 — While scattered rails and specialties continued to reach for moderately higher prices in today's stock market—a number touched peak levels for the past year or longer—there was enough further profit cashing to keep most leaders within bounds.

Good earnings statements were helpful to individual issues and the war news remained as a bullish argument. Failure of the market as a whole, however, to respond to optimistic battle bulletins caused many customers to adjourn to the conservative ranks.

Transfers ran to around 400,000 shares.

The preferreds of Armour of Illinois jumped several points each on word the Armour of Delaware Co. had completed plans for the retirement of the remainder of its 7 per cent senior stock, thus paving the way for the restoration of the properties, assets and earnings potentialities to the parent mid-western corporation.

Among better performers were Kinney Co., Loews, American Power & Light preferred, North American, Sears Roebuck, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich and Goodyear.

Lacking much bidding support were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, American Smelting, International Nickel, Deere, U. S. Rubber Preferred, Glenn Martin, Westinghouse, General Electric and J. C. Penney.

Post-war prospects as well as the current revenue picture for transportation systems were the principal bolstering stimulus for the rail group.

People of Sweden, U. S., Bound by Close Blood Ties

A survey by the Swedish Institute of Public Opinion reveals that nearly half of the people of Sweden have relatives in the United States. The precise number is 46 per cent, the survey shows, which means that of the 6,406,477 people of Sweden, nearly 3,000,000 have kinsmen in America.

The majority of the relationships are close blood connections. First of kin, such as brothers or sisters, total 11 per cent; second of kin, such as cousins, 27 per cent; while more distant kin account for only 8 per cent.

Americans born in Sweden or of Swedish extraction have not forgotten their relatives in the old country, for the survey shows that more than half of the families in Sweden who have a relative here have received letters, cables, and gift packages from America, mostly since the outbreak of the war. In fact, gift packages have been sent from America to 127,000 addressees in Sweden since the war began.

HERBERT L. KOBRAK (above), 55-year-old Hungarian-born resident of Cleveland, O., shot and wounded John S. Enroute to Charity hospital in Cleveland, McCarrens told associates that Kobrak had come to him for financial help, and that he had helped him previously.

VATICAN UNTOUCHED AFTER ROME RAID. After the U. S. bomber fleet blasted at Rome, an army reconnaissance plane made this picture of Vatican City to double-check that no bombs aimed at military targets in and around Rome went wide of the mark. Close study, the army said, showed the Vatican untouched. South is at top of this picture, with the river Tiber in upper left. The star-shared structure at left center on river bank is the Castle of St. Angelo. Light circular area just above center is St. Peter's plaza. To right of this circle is circular St. Peter's Cathedral. Adjacent to and just northwest of St. Peter's plaza is the Pope's palace. Long rectangular building below St. Peter's Cathedral is the Vatican library and art gallery building. This Northwest African Air Force picture was transmitted from Algiers via Signal Corps Radiophoto.

He speaks under auspices of the Detroit council of more than 50 citizens' committees representative of industry, labor, churches and other groups.

Supplemental Gas Ration Books To Need Renewal Soon

Many motorists to whom supplemental rations have been issued—those "B" and "C" coupon holders—will be seeking renewals between now and Sept. 1, OPA officials in Columbus pointed out today. Supplemental "B" rations will be issued by local ration boards only to drivers who show need for a limited amount of additional mileage for the purpose of carrying on activities essential to their business or to the community or war effort.

Supplemental "C" gasoline rations are made on a more definite showing of greater need and only for certain trades or professions and for a specified length of time. Renewals of supplemental rations are similar to a basic ration except that the local boards send out renewal forms in advance of the expiration dates. Tire inspection records, properly certified by an official OPA tire inspector or initiated by the board, must be furnished in order to obtain renewal of supplemental rations.

AFRICA

reports said British 8th army veterans were making only yard-by-yard progress.

However, Canadian forces were reported swinging rapidly around the German west flank in that sector, threatening to cut off any inland retreat and leaving the Germans only a narrow coastal passage to the north between towering Mt. Etna and the sea. In withdrawing up the coast, the Nazis would almost certainly be cut to pieces by allied warships hovering offshore.

Groggy as the enemy was from 14 days of whirlwind allied attack, there was still no sign of a mass withdrawal from the island, and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters reported that the axis was still attempting to rush reinforcements across the Tyrrhenian sea from the Italian mainland.

Allied torpedo planes pounded enemy ships seeking to transport troops and supplies to the island yesterday, sinking a merchant vessel, severely damaging two others and leaving an axis destroyer in flames. In addition, 10 barges were sunk off the north coast.

Italian newspapers complained bitterly that Italy was bearing the brunt of the invasion, with only the aid of limited Nazi forces, but while the Germans continued to fight savagely it was clear that Italian troops had little heart for the fight and nowhere had made a successful defense.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Prepare for Hay Fever

DEATH, TAXES, and hay fever on Aug 15—these in a changing world are certainties. For on or about Aug. 15 the ragweed begins to cast its blossoms on the air. And these blossoms are tiny, microscopic grains of yellow pollen dust so light that they rise on still days above the hills and the tallest office buildings, float over incredible distances, drift down in the evening and are sucked into our noses as we breathe.

Those who are "allergic" react with the good old sneeze and the snuffle, the stubbed-up-feeling, and all the horrors of hay fever. Of course, most of the pollen doesn't carry on this poetic high and lofty soaring, but scuds along about nose and eye-high—just the height of the ragweed bush—and gets to work right away on the poor victims.

What to do about it? In order to take any preventive vaccine treatment, you had better start now. And if you live in a hay fever community and the vaccines do not work on you and you have never tried an air-filtered, anti-allergic bedroom, you had better start now because heaven knows what the priorities are going to be.

It is the patriotic duty of all war workers to prepare for this menace, should they be hay-feverites, in order to avoid the August production slow-down. The efficiency, productive capacity, and comfort of about 5,000,000 Americans—perhaps half a million of them war workers—will suddenly be seriously impaired Aug. 15.

Best bet in prevention is the pre-seasonal use of pollen vaccine. But pre-seasonal means beginning right now if you have not already done so. The vaccines are weak solutions of pollen grains and are given hypodermically, but the injections are practically painless. The first vaccine given is very weak, but they are given in increasing strength of dosage until the time when symptoms usually begin — often longer, in fact, often right through the season, but they certainly should be begun a month or so in advance.

Several kinds of non-specific injections have been tried, including Coli Metabolin Tosse. The reports on these are variable; I am collecting data on some of them and will report later.

Converting the bedroom to an air-filtered chamber works well for many people. It at least gives relief during the night, which is more than half the battle. You can obtain advice about this from several firms, viz: (1) Davies Air Filter Co., 390 Fourth Avenue, New York, New York; (2) Adlee Co., 825 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.; (3) National Allergic Sales Co., 410 East 68th Street, New York, New York; (4) Allergic Products Co., Newton, Mass.; (5) Allergen - Proof encasings, Inc., 4046 Superior Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

I GAVE a second's careful consideration to Halloran's request, and then decided to grant it. After all, I told myself, this was not the Lansfield, where we had to guard every telephone conversation because of the "listening posts" of the manager, Milner, and I did not see any possible advantage to be gained by refusing him.

"Yes, I'll call him," I said, and took up the receiver.

"Will you please connect me with 1718?" I asked, and a second later heard Dicky's voice.

"Yes?" he said with a rising inflection. "What's wanted?"

"You are," I replied. "Nothing urgent, but I wish you could come down here as soon as possible and stay about two minutes."

Halloran was palpably nervous as he waited for Dicky's arrival. I surmised that his was as much the artistic temperament, waiting for approval or disapproval of a masterpiece, as was that of any famous painter or sculptor.

"Please stand here," he said, indicating a spot out of range from the door. "Then, when I open the door and let your husband in, he won't see you until I stand aside."

"Very well," I answered, moving to the spot assigned me.

It was but a minute or two later when we head Dicky's somewhat peremptory knock.

Opens the Door

"Come in," Mr. Halloran said, opening the door.

"Where is Mrs. Graham?" Dicky asked. "She said she wished to see me."

Halloran stepped to one side, and waved his hand toward me.

"There she is," he said in the hushed tones of some ultra-patriotic person indicating the Lincoln Memorial in Washington.

Dicky stared for almost a second, then exploded with laughter.

"Madge! As I live!" he chortled when he got his breath. "Honestly, Halloran you've created a masterpiece! If I hadn't known there was no other woman here, and you hadn't pointed to her into the bargain, I never would have recognized her. All right, cutie! You'll get by, if your walk, or your talk, doesn't give you away. Let's see you walk across the room, and then pretend I'm a guest of the hotel and ask me something."

Rehearses Her Role

I shook my fist at him, then walked across the room with the rather halting, awkward gait which I thought went with the toil-worn maid appearance Halloran had built up. When I had reached a point directly in front of him, I asked deferentially:

"Would you like your room done now, sir?"

Dicky laughed again; then looked at me with suddenly intent eyes.

"You're a mighty good actress, my dear. But your rendition isn't quite good enough—neither your mannerisms nor your gait. Your voice is okay, plus. Nobody would recognize it as yours. But the other two aren't up to par. That housekeeper is going to drill you, though, isn't she?"

"Yes, as soon as I get to the seventeenth floor."

"Then you'd better not delay getting up there," he said. "And when she thinks you're letter-perfect, you'd better flash me an S.O.S. I'll come in and give you a last once-an-twice-over."

He stopped and the intent look in his eyes deepened.

"We can't afford to have any slip-ups on this," he said.

I knew what he meant, and remembered what he had told me about the venomous look Ruth Hayes had given me when he had called me out into the room where he had been "playing her alive," and she had realized that I had been a hidden witness of her humiliation. Dicky was determined that Ruth should have no slightest chance to recognize me.

"I'll remember," I told him "and I'll be very glad to have you check on me."

"Then I'll be running along," he said. "I'll be able to get up there unobserved, because the exit to the stairnase is directly opposite Room 1718. Besides, I left one of the guards in my room, holding the door just a trifle ajar, so I can make the dash into it from the staircase in nothing flat. So even if she has checked in by this time—she hadn't when I started down here—she won't have a chance in a million of seeing me."
